HITLER STICKS TO DEMANDS

Freak Storm Lashes City, Loss Set at $10,000; Bolt Hits Home

Lightning Knocks Boy And Dog Unconscious

Neighbor Carries Them To Safety As House Ignites; Utility Lines and Trees Felled, Cellars Flooded.

Mansfield today "mopped up" after a freak electrical and hail storm which swept the city early Tuesday evening leaving in its wake damage estimated at nearly $10,000.

An eight-year-old boy and his dog were knocked unconscious when lightning struck the house where they were sleeping and then set it on fire.

Water flooded basements and streets.

Trees were blown down and utility companies counted their losses to lines in excess of $2,000.

The storm which broke shortly after 6:30 p. m. struck with sudden fury and in the period of half an hour it was estimated that more than an inch of rail fell on the city.

Described as the "worst" electrical storm in several years, it was accompanied by a high wind and hail which struck with such force that it cut grape vines and gardens to shreds.

Hail fell for more than 10 minutes covering lawns like snow. In some places hail was reported several inches deep.

The water which flooded the streets and basements rushed over the curbs and in numerous places overloaded storm sewers and blew lose manhole covers as the water taxed the lines beyond capacity. Several streets were closed until the water receded.

Strangely the storm was confined practically to the city itself. Rain was reported in only a few places outside the corporation limits. It apparently cut a wide path through the city, beginning almost at the northern city limits and extending into Woodland. It extended from Lincoln Heights to just beyond the corporation line west of the city.

David Marks, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Marks, 205 Helen avenue, and his dog, "Ginger", were knocked unconscious when lightning struck the house at the height of the storm.

Marks, assistant cashier at the Citizens National Bank and Trust company and his wife were away at the time and the boy was alone in bed with the dog.

Sees Lightning Strike.

Mrs. D. E. Dawson, 204 Helen avenue, directly across the street was watching the house in the absence of the parents and saw the lightning strike.

She carried the boy and dog from the home as the roof broke into flames. Neither David nor his dog were any the worse today from their experiences.

Firemen from two companies battled the fire for nearly an hour

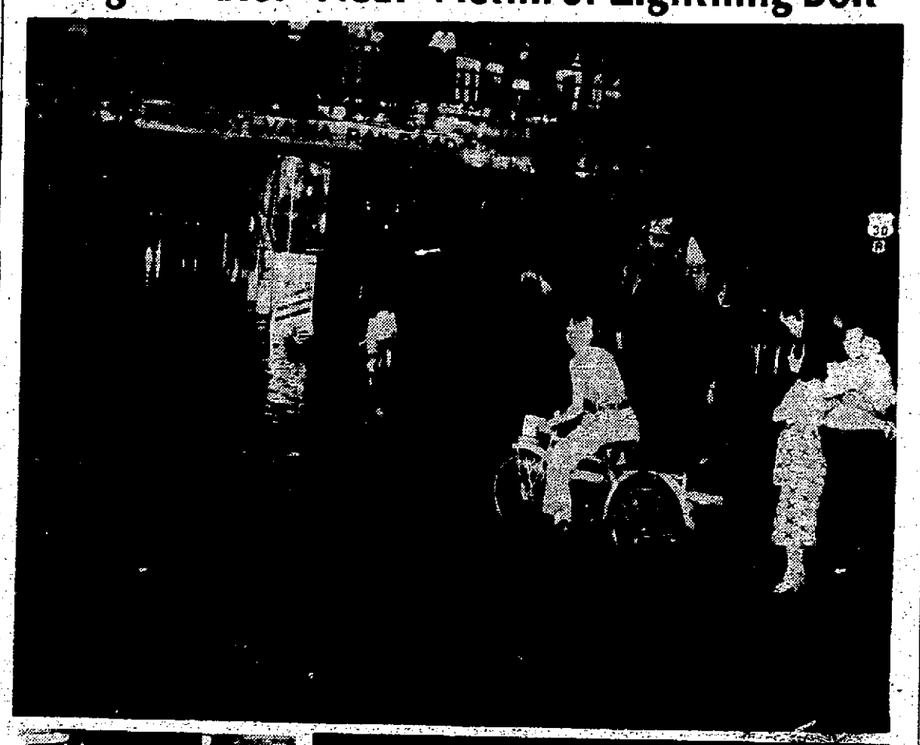
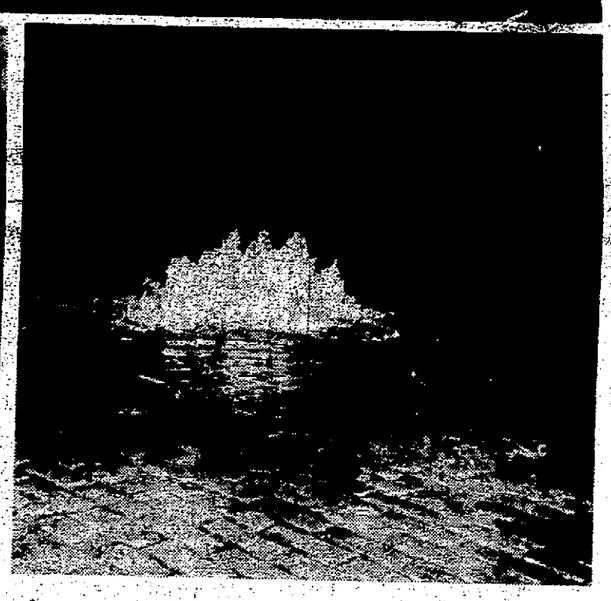
High Water—Near-Victim of Lightning Bolt





Everytime Mansfield has a storm like the one last evening, the Pennsylvania subway on Park avenue east is flooded. Picture at top shows how it looked last night. Note lights of cars on the east side, waiting for water to subside. Lower left is David Marks, 8, and his dog, Ginger, who narrowly escaped injury when lightning struck the Marks home, 205 Helen avenue. Lower right isn't a fountain—it's just water that a storm sewer couldn't carry away fast enough coming out of a manhole at Second and Hedges streets.

ACTION DUE ON JENKINS APPEAL

Sherwood Says He'll Try to Get to London Today After 2 More Escape Farm.

The escape of two more prisoners from London Prison farm during the night was expected today to spur action by the state on what to do about administration of the farm and the request of Supt. Thomas C. Jenkins, former Mansfielder, for a leave of absence.

Tall corn on the farm helped Allen Austin, 27, and John Huber, 42, elude guards and escape late yesterday. Their escape brought to 14 the number of men who have walked away from the unwalled institution in the past month.

Meanwhile, State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood said he would try to get to London today to confer with Jenkins, who has been ill and asked for the leave of absence in order to recuperate from a heart ailment.

Sherwood said he had hoped to go to London yesterday but was detained by the "press of business."

Following earlier escapes, Jenkins was ordered to "clean up"

Liner Normandie Held In New York By French Order

BULLETIN

NEW YORK—(INS)—Collector of Customs Harry M. Durning announced this afternoon that the Bremen, Normandie and Aquitania will be permitted to sail for Europe by 7 p. m.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Sailing of the French liner Normandie for Europe was indefinitely deferred today on orders from Paris.

The Normandie, ranked only by the British Queen Mary in size and speed among the world's luxury passenger ships, had been scheduled to sail at 9 a. m. (EST) with 250 passengers.

Instructions to postpone the departure were received by Henri Morin De Lincluys, manager director of the French line here, in a cable from Henri Cangardel, manager in Paris. Officials of the line said no reason was given for delaying the sailing.

Meanwhile, despite the angry protest of its owners, the North German Lloyd liner Bremen, world's third largest passenger ship, again was refused clearance papers as squads of U. S. customs agents continued their search of the vessel for contraband.

Harry Durning, collector of the port of New York, also ordered the British liners Aquitania and Transylvania to remain at their piers "pending a search by customs officers satisfactory to me."

City council at its September meeting will be asked by Mayor Claude M. Hunter to appropriate $3,000 from a special PWA fund to finance improvements at the sewage treatment plant.

The proposal calls for the construction of additional drying beds to handle the increased amount of sludge processed through the plant in the past year.

The open vats would be constructed adjacent to the present sludge drying equipment south of the disposal works on the former site of filtering equipment of the old sewage plant torn down three

Wants Poland to Send Envoy to Berlin, Give Up Danzig In 24 Hours

NAZIS 'GLAD' TO MEDIATE, BUT ON OWN TERMS

Berlin Sources Say Belgium's Offer 'Welcome' But Point to 'Irrevocable Demands'

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(INS)— Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's plans call for him to leave Berlin Friday, it was understood tonight. These plans are indefinite and his ultimate destination is not known.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—The German government "welcomes with extraordinary sympathy the offer of mediation by Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold," authoritative quarters said unreservedly today.

These persons said the offer of mediation was not extended to the German government but to Great Britain, France and Poland.

Britain, in the opinion of these persons, is the only nation really in a position to press upon Poland to accept.

(London and Paris sent favorable replies to The Netherlands and Belgian soverigns.—Poland reiterated her reply to President Roosevelt on the desirability of mediation, but indicated further progress depended on the German attitude.)

As evidence of Germany's willingness to have the issues with Poland negotiated, Germany informed quarters pointed to the discussions now going on with the British government.

Authoritative quarters were emphatic in stating that "the efforts of the two sovereigns for the maintenance of peace and the European consciousness of responsibility with it reflected by this offer receive general appreciative recognition."

"This exchange of thoughts proves that German efforts are proceeding in the same direction as those of the two sovereigns," they said.

Germany's demands for the return of Danzig and the Polish corridor, however, they declared, remained unaltered.

Germany has taken the initiative toward a peaceful solution by Hitler's communication to Chamberlain, they said.

These persons added that now the initiative must be taken by Great Britain to bring Poland to a state of readiness to deal with Germany, always, of course, on the basis of Germany's irrevocable demands.

Two charged Annenberg, Ragen and Bidwill, and three Annenberg companies: Nationwide News Service, Inc.; Illinois Nationwide News Service, Inc., and Bentley Murray and Company, with use of the mails to further the alleged lottery; conspiracy to use the mails for such purposes; carrying from state to state by leased wires "a list of prizes awarded by means of a lottery scheme;" conspiracy to carry such lists.

London Sources Claim Chancellor Asks Territorial Sacrifices By Poles In Advance of Negotiation; Britain and France Said to Resist Such Plan.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—Great Britain tonight sent a reply to Adolf Hitler's message offering to negotiate with Poland on the basis of return of Danzig and the Corridor to Germany. Britain was understood to be standing firm behind her pledges to Poland.

By WEBB MILLER, United Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON—Adolf Hitler has sent to Great Britain a message which he described as an offer to negotiate Europe's war problem, but which British sources today said demanded territorial sacrifices by Poland in advance of any such negotiations. On that point the British and French are determined to resist.

According to three well-informed diplomatic sources in London the Nazi fuehrer's message asked that a Polish emissary arrive in Berlin within 24 hours to "confirm" cession to Germany of Danzig and the Polish Corridor as a prelude to negotiations on other questions.

That request—which Hitler reportedly described as a proposal for negotiations instead of an ultimatum—was believed by British sources to be elastic so that the 24-hour period specified might be extended. It could not be learned whether Hitler had threatened any definite action after 24 hours.

In any event, it was understood that British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax had instructed the British embassy at Berlin to advise Germany that Great Britain declines even to transmit to Poland any proposal for Polish plenipotentiaries to go to Berlin. The cabinet may reply to Hitler but there was no hint so far of a weakening in British-French support of Poland.

Written and Oral Message.

Hitler's communication to Great Britain was in the nature of a written message and an oral conversation with British Ambassador Sir Nevile Henderson in Berlin last night.

According to diplomatic sources, either orally or in writing, the Nazi fuehrer specifically suggested that Britain use her good offices to arrange for a Polish emissary to arrive in Berlin "by Thursday" to open direct negotiations.

Various diplomatic sources also had similar information to the effect that Hitler asked Britain to answer him in 24 hours, presumably before midnight tonight. The British cabinet was said authoritatively to plan to send a reply sometime today, keeping open the door for another message from Hitler.

In explaining details of the Hitler communications, it was reported that he added Silesia to his territorial demands against Poland.

Wants Silesia Too.

It was said Hitler made it clear that he wanted Silesia returned to Germany but whether that would be a subject of further negotiation was uncertain.

Furthermore, he was described as proposing an "economic agreement" with whatever might be left of Poland after such terri-

WARSAW: Polish Decree Calls All of Reservist Army To Colors

(By United Press)

WARSAW, Poland—Poland decided today to call to the colors all trained reserves and specialists, in most sections up to the age of 40, and in certain other sections those somewhat younger.

Placards will be displayed in the streets this afternoon and the radio simultaneously will announce the step. The measure will be somewhat short of complete mobilization.

Previous to the new order, the army was estimated at nearly 1,800,000 men, with the five classes called to the colors individually last night.

It was estimated that the age of the new call will be 35 instead of 40 in many districts so that an enemy cannot gauge the army's strength accurately.

France and Britain were reported to have sent a joint military mission to Warsaw.

Maj. Gen. Adrian Carton De Wiant of Britain, who has lived in Poland many years, and Gen. Jacques Faury of France, former head of the Polish military school, head the mission and several officers and members of it have arrived at the Polish capital, the reports said.

In reply to messages from Queen Wilhelmina of Holland and King Leopold of Belgium, offering to serve as mediators at a conference on the Polish question, the government said mediation of that type was always welcome, and referred to the reply sent previously to President Roosevelt who suggested arbitration.

PARIS: Hitler Bent On War, Can't Be Halted, French Believe

BULLETIN

PARIS—(AP)—The premier's office announced today that a decree would be published in the official journal tomorrow requisitioning France's entire railroad network and all rail equipment for military purposes.

(By International News Service)

PARIS—Informed French quarters today held to the conviction that Chancellor Hitler is bent on war, and that neither the diplomacy of Britain nor the pressure of Premier Mussolini can hold him in leash.

With semi-official authority, Lucien Bourgues wrote in today's Petit Parisien:

"We believe that Hitler is stubbornly set against a peaceful solution of the Polish question. . . .

"The situation now is at least as serious as it was yesterday.

"Mussolini evidently intends to hold back Hitler, but it is not certain that he will succeed, as Italian influence in Berlin is weaker since the German-Soviet pact was signed."

"Pertinax" (Andre Geraud) said in the Echo De Paris: "It is possible that after receipt of the German reply, Prime Minister Chamberlain will conclude he has nothing more to say."

Mme. Genevieve Tabouis of L'Oeuvre, who has close foreign office connections, reported considerable internal dissent in Germany among civilians and army quarters.

"At Augsburg," she wrote, "a storm troop officer named Birkhuber was reported shot for hav-

County Harvests Bumper Corn Crop Early This Year

FARMERS TWO WEEKS AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Ideal Weather Matures Stalks Rapidly; Storm Fails to Hit Outlying Sections.

Cutting of Richland county's bumper corn crop was under way today, nearly two weeks ahead of the usual harvest season.

County Agent George B. Ganyard said ideal weather conditions this summer caused the corn to mature early and most of it already is past the stage where it would be damaged by an early frost.

The heavy rain and hail storm which struck Mansfield last night did not affect corn cutting and farm activities in other sections of the county since most of them even escaped without rain.

Corn was planted early in the spring and ample rainfall since then has resulted in rapid development of the crop which is ripening in all sections of the county.

Usually, it is well after the first of September before the county's corn is ready to cut, Ganyard said. After it is cut, most of the corn stands in the shock until shredding and husking operations begin in late October.

Some Fill Silos.

Corn for ensilage also matured much earlier than usual and a few farmers in the southern part of the county were filling silos today.

The same favorable weather that speeded up the growth of corn also helped to produce one of the best crops the county and state have had in recent year.

State crop experts predict that the Ohio crop this year will be 500,000 bushels ahead of last year's big production and far ahead of the 10-year average. The per acre yield is expected to reach 46 bushels.

They attributed the greater production partly to the widespread use of hybrid corn which is sturdier and withstands dry weather better. Central Ohio crops have suffered from lack of rainfall this summer.

Brothers Develop New Device For Orchestra Lighting

Two Mansfield brothers will go to Cleveland tomorrow to give a demonstration of their "color organ," a new orchestra lighting device they have worked out.

The organ for which patents have been sought, has been developed by R. M. Grassick, Wayne street radio shop operator and his younger brother, William. They will give a demonstration in Cleveland before a number of theater and entertainment bookers.

The "color organ" is a device whereby sound waves from music operate light controls, which turn on and off lights of various colors.

The musical scale is divided into four registers or brackets. The lowest notes operate the blue light, the second register is red, the third green and the highest notes operate a yellow light. The volume of music also controls the intensity of light—very soft music making a subdued colored light and loud music making vivid colored light.

The lights are projected onto a "jeweled" screen and the polished silver metal of the orchestra stands. Music makes the lights, reflected in the metal, look like bubbling fountains of blue, red, green and yellow.

The jeweled curtain shimmers and dances with glowing color which recedes and flashes with the tempo of the music. Slow music—with pauses between notes, makes shadows interchangeable with the lights, for when there is a split-second of silence in music, there is no light for the period.

Following announcement of this year's change many governors, sports authorities and calendar makers protested and some governors have announced they will not follow the president's action but will proclaim November 30 as the day for Thanksgiving.

Aged Man, Wounded by Boys, in Ashland Hospital.

ASHLAND — There was no change reported today in the condition of William Tracy, 82, who is in Samaritan hospital here with a .22 caliber bullet in his back. He was accidentally shot Monday night by two Ashland youths.

Hospital attendants said physicians have been unable as yet to locate the exact position of the bullet.

Tracy was wounded while walking along a vacant lot near the Eagle Rubber company about 9 p. m. Monday by two youths who gave their names as Bill Thomas, 15, and Gene Detlefsen, 14, both of Ashland. The youths told police they had been shooting rabbits. Thomas was handling the gun at the time of the accident. The boys are not being held by authorities. Police Chief Herman D. Officer Charges Cab Not Equipped With Proper Governor.

Police today held a warrant for the arrest of Emil Sziraki, manager of the Yellow Stripe Cab company, who is charged with operating a taxicab not equipped with a proper governor to regulate its speed.

The charges were filed by Patrolman C. W. Kyler, who said that while inspecting one of the company's cabs yesterday he found that it was not equipped according to the city ordinance.

The machine, he said, was capable of speeds above the 45-mile-an-hour limit set up in the ordinance.

Joseph Mayer, 274 Wood street, who drove the taxi, forfeited a $25 bond when he failed to appear in court today to answer a similar charge.

ACQUIRES TITLE TO POSTAL SITE

Federal Government Clears Last Hurdle in Move to Build Addition Here.

The final hurdle had been cleared today for construction of a $154,000 addition to the Mansfield post office.

Title to the Mansfield Mutual Fire Insurance company property on West Fourth street adjoining the post office was acquired by the federal government for $26,000 as a site for the building addition.

The property transfer was officially completed with the recording of a federal district court decision with County Recorder Howard Wenning, condemning the insurance firm property and approving the acceptance of $26,000 for it by the insurance company. The money was deposited in federal court at Cleveland recently.

Work on the addition is scheduled to start this fall after the insurance company has vacated the property.

The insurance company recently purchased the Charles Beelman property at 680 Park avenue west and will move its offices there as soon as the building is remodeled and an addition is completed.

Detroit Man Seeks Damages for Lexington Crash.

An automobile accident in Lexington nearly two years ago had resulted today in the filing of a $5,000 damage suit in common pleas court by Eugene Baxter, Detroit, Mich., who suffered injuries in the crash.

Baxter filed his action against Isabel Armstrong of Lexington. He contends, she made a left turn in front of him, forcing him to drive his car into a tree to avoid a collision with her car.

Baxter says in his petition that his injuries caused him to lose six months work. His car also was badly damaged, he asserted. The accident occurred Oct. 6, 1937 near the B. and O. crossing in Lexington. Prosecutor G. W. Marriott is counsel for Baxter.

POLICE ARREST MAN, WOMAN AT RUBBER PLANT

Disorders Start as Company Opens Doors, Closed for 9 Weeks by Dispute.

(By Associated Press)

SANDUSKY — Four workers' cars were stoned and two pickets were arrested today as the Barr Rubber company reopened its plant, closed nine weeks by a strike of the United Rubber Workers.

A window of one car was smashed. No one was injured.

Elmer Wilson, president of the U. R. W., said the two strikers arrested were J. Storch and Mrs. Mary Stonerook.

Police Chief R. G. Bravard directed a detachment of police, carrying clubs and tear gas. They ordered pickets to "keep moving."

The 16-year-old company manufactures balloons, toys and sundry rubber novelties.

Employs 200 Workers

Wilson said the plant normally employs between 200 and 250 workers, about two-thirds of them women. He claimed 80 per cent were union members.

Randolph Dorn, company president, said the plant was opening for "those who desire to return to work."

Union and company officials said the union's demand for a three and a half-cent general wage increase had held up a settlement.

Dorn said "only a minority are holding out for a general wage increase, which the company cannot grant at this time.

"The company has agreed to an increase in minimum rates. The company now feels that a settlement with this minority cannot be reached and has come to the conclusion that the demands of the employes be met in reopening the shop."

O. H. Bosley, of Akron, international representative of the U. R. W., said: "If we can't stop the strike-breakers with peaceful methods then we won't be responsible for what happens."

Later Wilson estimated that between 40 and 50 workers and 30 office employes had entered the plant.

'DICTATOR' OUT

Moose Act to Eliminate Term as Title of Lodge Officer.

Taking cognizance of implications which have grown around the word "dictator," delegates to the annual convention of the Loyal Order of Moose in Philadelphia took steps today to have the term eliminated as the title of officers of lodges. International News Service dispatches said.

Mansfield delegates at the convention are Earl A. McFarland, deputy supreme dictator, and Firth Griffith, past dictator of the Mansfield lodge.

A measure paving the way for the change of title that will cost the order an estimated $50,000 will be submitted to the delegates tomorrow. It is proposed to substitute the title "governor."

Meanwhile, the women of the Moose named Mrs. Mary Wallace of Cincinnati as grand regent.

HEALTH OFFICES TO BE FINISHED

Third Floor of City Building to be Painted Next Week.

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist announced today that work will be started next week on the refinishing of the administrative offices of the health department in the city building.

The job will involve the painting of five rooms on the third floor at a cost of approximately $50. The offices have not been painted since the third floor of the building was completed and opened several years ago.

Meanwhile workmen were engaged today in repairing the roof of the building to seal cracks that had developed during the past two years over the firemen's quarters and had caused the plaster in that part of the building to fall.

Army Maneuvers Succeed, Since They Show That We Have No Army, No Arms

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The maneuvers of the first army were a magnificent success, inasmuch as the true purpose of the demonstration was to show the people what a disgracefully clumsy, puny and ill-equipped military establishment they have and to frighten and shame them. About the best that General Hugh Drum could say for his command was that the men rated "A" in health, effort and conduct.

His critique runs into considerable wordage, with compliments here and there to the intelligence and patriotism of the soldiers, but the sum of it is that as an army, this one was terrible and the exercise a flop.

From the tone of his remarks one is given to suspect that General Drum spoke not in sudden alarm but with the exultant note of one who has proved his point.

And all this prompts a suggestion which a general on the active list probably would be afraid to make even if he wanted to, that peacetime conscription would solve many of the problems that showed up so glaringly in the fiasco at Plattsburg.

Under the present method the national guard soldiers are doing their country a patriotic favor above and beyond the minimum requirements of their citizenship, and the proposal, sometimes heard, to make permanent the CCC and introduce military training into the corps is just about perfect, except that it is brutally undemocratic. If the CCC were converted into something on the order of Adolf Hitler's labor corps, whose members drilled with spades, the result would be that sons of the poor would be honored with the privilege of getting shot up in the early stages of the next war, if any, while other young men were being gathered up, sorted, sifted and taught the rudiments.

Although the national guard in peacetime often is used to perform degrading political dirty work for the likes of Huey Long and the governor of Rhode Island, who called the troops to punish a man who had called him a special kind of liar, these men seem a shade more patriotic than any other element in the country, because they are not soldiers by trade and serve only because they want to.

If much of the present equipment is junk, as seems to be the case, and there isn't anywhere near enough of that to enable the existing numbers to go through the motions, that lag in modernization and quantity would be taken up in a short time if military duty were made an even thing to all sound males. The term need not be longer than just enough to familiarize the men with the simpler facts of life in the army, and the turnover would establish a reserve on a democratic basis.

And the officers would get some practical training in the kind of work which, from lack of experience due to lack of opportunity, they seem to have bungled at Plattsburg. Drum didn't exactly say they bungled, but a perusal of his pep talk will leave an impression that he wanted to get that idea across without unnecessary damage to anybody's feelings. After all, it wasn't their fault but the fault of a country which let the army get into this rundown condition.

Whether or not conscription, or, in a nicer phrase, universal military service, is an unnecessarily large remedy, there is no escaping the fact that General Drum in his final review of the exercises used great ingenuity in devising pleasant equivalents for such words as "inefficient," "incompetent" and "terrible."

Maybe the lottery or draft system would suffice to train enough soldiers to constitute a safe minimum and to give the officers, including the regulars, as well as reserve and national guard, the workouts which they require.

As to equipment, the U. S. A. may fumble along as usual and then, when the thing happens, go scurrying around trying to borrow shoes, drawers and things which go "boom" from friends who are less provided with the materials and facilities for making them than a nation which constantly brags of its efficiency.

Drum says, "the shortage of essential man power and modern combat equipment has been recognized in all our exercises," and "I estimate that more than 50 per cent of the men in this exercise have never fired their weapons in a combat course of instruction. Aside from the question of efficient preparedness, such a state is deplorable, inexcusable and certainly unfair to this fine manhood who may have to face the crisis of war."

This critique is the real success of the maneuvers, and he leaves a question whether at some future time he will be forced to haul it out of his file and say, "I told you so."

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The timely, political, propaganda movie has not yet run its course despite the spotty boxoffice on "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," the industry's guinea-pig for the new experiment in frankness.

"Nazi Spy"—at first expected to clean up a record gross in America—has not done so. But foreign returns have been gratifying enough to warrant a continuation of the "Americanism campaign" sponsored by Warner Bros. That studio is going ahead with two more anti-Nazi films, "The Bishop Who Walked With God" and "Underground." The former is a dramatization of the clergyman who defied Hitler and went to a concentration camp. The latter deals with lives of those in Germany who are opposed to the Hitler regime.

The studio also has completed its "Career Man." Beginning as a document as frank as "Nazi Spy," the script during production was toned down—assumably at the time when income from "Nazi Spy" looked most unpromising. Later, probably when the foreign returns were tested, the soft-pedal was lifted and the script restored virtually to its original form.

Hollywood's prize on-again, off-again story property is "It Can't Happen Here," Sinclair Lewis's work showing consequences of a dictatorship in the United States. Metro bought it three years ago, shelved it (while many an outraged "liberal" protested loudly) and took it off the shelf, announced plans for an ambitious production. Then (significantly at the time when "Nazi Spy's" prospects looked sourest) it was "postponed"—not, however, without some prospect of ultimate filming. Meaning, I suppose, if the wind blows the straw in the profitable direction.)

Metro, meanwhile, has Phyllis Bottome's novel, "The Mortal Storm," with a setting inside Nazi Germany, also "I Had a Comrade," likewise a Nazi yarn, and an untitled story by Erich Maria Remarque dealing with refugees from Nazidom. (Metro's last Remarque film was "Three Comrades," so treated as to remove most of the sting for any foreign market that might take offense. Metro's "Idiot's Delight" likewise had the pacific balm treatment—no specific country, and certainly not Italy, being mentioned.)

Walter Wagner still says he will make "Personal History," the Vincent Sheean autobrography, as the story of an American reporter who tries to find liberty abroad and finds it, finally, only in America. The script is again in process of revamping, and the successive "treatments" some day should be an interesting record of these geographically changing times.

As quickly as the reporter-hero, in one version, got hell in one country, that particular country has changed hands, making that version obsolete. Once our hero was involved in the Spanish civil war, but now that war is ended, and the script, striving for timeliness, is being changed.

Performance of Fantasy Is Postponed Until Thursday

ALTHOUGH the picturesque little Chinese junk was still sailing on the lake in the Dickson gardens last evening, and the teak shrine to Confucius, a rickshaw and other oriental properties still gave the Woodlawn gardens a Chinese setting, the performance of "An Oriental Fantasy" was postponed, because of rain, until Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

This Chinese garden was constructed on the natural stage near the little lake at Dickson's by William Holzman of New York City. A Chinese gong, which will be rung several times during the operatic musicale, was made in China 100 years before Columbus discovered America. Among the other authentic properties, is the gown which Frank J. Schwemler of Cleveland wore as the Emperor. This gown is one of such as those worn by persons of high rank in China.

Edith Fletcher Jameson will portray the leading role in this story of Moo Lee and her tragic love for the White Lover. A cast of 35 persons from Cleveland will play the supporting roles in the "Fantasy." Included among the Clevelanders is Rev. Gerald Clark of St. Paul's Episcopal church, the Colonial Singers of East Cleveland, and members of the Grace Episcopal choir and junior choir. Ballet dances will be presented by a group of students of Miss Marguerite Speas.

Mrs. Jameson and James Dickson are co-sponsors of this production, which is being presented for the benefit of the proposed dental clinic for Mansfield indigent children under the direction of the Delta Theta Tau sorority.

"An Oriental Fantasy" will be the last in a series of three outdoor musicals at the Dickson gardens. Vera Newstead Rowley of Cleveland is directing the musicale. Tickets for Thursday evening's performance may be purchased from members of Delta Theta Tau or at Tawse's drugstore.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

ARE YOU LOOKING for something different in makeup to wear with your new fall clothes? Well then you won't have to search far, because a famous French perfumer has just introduced a makeup ensemble called "Robin Hood." . . . The lipstick is every bit as dashing as that gay bandit was, and its warm tones have been perfected to compliment any color of costume—there is also powder, rouge and mascara to harmonize with this lipstick.

* * *

Perhaps the smartest thing in this entire new line, however, is Robin Hood's "money bag." . . . This clever little bag is of dark green suede (which looks as though it would match the green in the heart of Robin Hood's very own Sherwood forest) is lined with bright red silk for contrast—and is filled with lipstick, a compact of the rouge and of the powder, a flacon of the new "Carefree" scented perfume, and a small mirror. . . . It would indeed be a nice "going away" gift for some college friend—or a handy kit to tuck in your own handbag for that matter!

IT RATHER LOOKS as though we'll have to talk about wool today, because that's what all the downtown stores are showing for early fall wear—and I'd say that the brighter and more unusual the stripe, check or plaid, the better—one attractive ensemble I saw while shopping had a brown skirt with diagonal tan stripes, tan jacket with horizontal brown stripes and a bright yellow blouse! A striped wool jersey in shades of gray looked practical with a black velveteen jacket and bright red belt and button trim. . . . In fact, velveteen seems to be very popular for fall, and another unusual frock I saw was fashioned from green and black diagonally striped velveteen trimmed in black.

Dressy wool costume ensembles are also important items for your autumn wardrobe as they can be worn so comfortably on those early cool days—when you're too warm with a coat and too cool without one. . . . An attractive suit of dubonnet has a nubby wool skirt, chiffon velvet blouse, and three-quarter length jacket trimmed with a round black skunk collar. . . . Another leading fall shade is moss green—this time combined in a fitted wool dress with matching jacket—the frock and jacket are both trimmed with tucking and dull gold ornaments. . . . Still another wool jacket ensemble I saw downtown yesterday was of dragon fly blue, and the bolero had a matching wool braid detail for trim.

YOU'VE never really known comfort in gloves, they say, until you've tried the new "finger-free" ones—which can be purchased at one of the local shops in white or navy blue for early wear this season. . . . Although I'm not sure just when you'd wear them, I am sure you would if you had a pair of the new white bunny mitts—which are really made from fluffy rabbit fur.

IF "L'AIMENT" has always been one of your favorite perfumes, you'll be delighted to learn that its manufacturer has just introduced the fragrance in a complete line of toiletries—cologne, perfume, face powder, dusting powder, body sachet and compact. . . . The packages are attractive too, designed in shades of red and gold.

ADDED ACCESSORIES: Protect your clothes from rain and snow this fall and winter by wearing one of the new odorless oilsilk raincoats—they come in white and other desirable shades. . . . And then to protect things from dust and moths, better get yourself one or more of the convenient garment bags, which come in pliofilm, oilsilk or mello-sheen (a new material which is guaranteed for long wear) and can be closed with snaps, slides or zippers.

* * *

Note: The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 1 and 2:30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

"Could Hardly Raise Arms," Says This Mansfield Matron

Declares they were full of aches and pains, also back and limbs, until Vendol came to the rescue.

No matter where you go in Mansfield and nearby vicinity, you are almost sure to find someone praising Vendol for the wonderful relief it has given. This great medicine acts as a diuretic to your irritated kidneys, relieves constipation, and sharpens your appetite through the action of the pure extracts of Roots and Herbs with Alkalines added for extra benefits. This liquid remedy can be quickly absorbed into your blood and start right to work giving full benefit for every ounce of this fine medicine.

MRS. JOHN H. ACKERMAN

Mrs. John H. Ackerman of 143 E. First St., Mansfield, says: "Few people suffered worse from pains than I did at times. I suppose they were caused by poisons backed up due to constipation and sluggish action of my kidneys. Sometimes the pains in my arms were so severe I could hardly raise them. My back ached and there were aches and pains in my legs, and by the time night came it often felt like I was all washed out.

"It seems almost unbelievable that a medicine could give all the relief that Vendol brought. It got my bowls moving promptly and thoroughly, acted as a diuretic to my kidneys; then one by one my troubles passed off and now I seldom ever feel a pain in my arms, back, or legs; my sleep is unbroken and restful; and my daily work seems easy. When you consider that Vendol did all this for me in only a few weeks, its amazing power is easy to see."

All druggists sell Vendol so it is not difficult to get, and the Vendol Man in person invites everyone to call at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., and let him explain all about this great Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine. There is no charge, so don't delay.

Werewolves Are Often Charming

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The fate of the two Florida girls who went with a man, a stranger about whom they knew nothing, to be photographed for screen tests, need not be repeated here.

The hideous details have been printed by every paper in the country, and the man only escapel lynching by the resourcefulness of the jailer, who got him away to another, stronger jail.

Scores of girls have written letters to this column telling me they've had offers from "gentlemen" whom they met by accident or in other casual ways, who suggest they go with them for voice tests to places unknown to the girls. And shall they take up this offer? Their parents have advised against it.

Wise parents!

I've felt at times that girls must be bored with me for vehemently urging them not to have anything to do with "talent scouts" unless they know something about them, or unless the "scouts" have something to show that they represent an authorized agency.

Such fiends as this man who lured two Florida girls for a ride, wanted under a dozen aliases for a variety of crimes, compel the ancient belief in "werewolves." He is said to have been an actor, a writer of radio script, to have held a W. P. A. job and other similar pursuits. He knew the patter, could talk convincingly, and evidently obtained the permission of the parents of his two latest victims to take the girls from home.

He would have been in jail doing time at hard labor if it were not for the mistaken mercy of various Parole Boards who had a way of turning him loose. Why sex delinquents are freed by Parole Boards all over this country is one of the amazing riddles of our penal system. Doubtless you can remember as I can, more than a dozen cases within the past year, where sex degenerates have been freed by Parole Boards, only to repeat their sex crimes and throw in murder at the same time.

This man Cochran was a patron of matrimonial bureaus, and in his crimes against women it is said he secured the names of girls from these agencies, which is just one more argument to have nothing to do with such "services." He does not appear to have belonged to the thug type of human gorilla. He has been described as charming and highly imaginative, and at one stage of his career he married into a prominent family, later abandoning his wife and two children.

If there could be anything humorous about this revolting affair, it is the claim of the murdered that he went bad to spite a woman. She was an actress whom he met three years ago and lived with until last April. Then she told him she "didn't need" him any more and to go on and be a criminal if he wanted to. In revenge he said he picked out her home town, Miami, for his biggest crime.

Parole Boards, please take notice!

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Lillian's poker face relaxed at my father's words of praise, and a smile of gratification quirked the corners of her mouth.

"Yes, I asked Hammond about the car," she said, "and his best opinion is that it is a deliberate and rather clumsy plant. In the first place, it runs perfectly, Hammond says, and the front of it is not damaged materially. There is no reason in the world why they could not have hauled it back from the tree and gone on with it, even if it were a legitimate accident. But he is sure that they planned to break the trail at that point, so as to vanish into the woods, and that they were in too much of a hurry, and too careful of their skins, to do more than jab the car against a tree, with very little force behind the jab."

Know He Was Trailed?

"No doubt that's it," my father said. "Does Hammond think Leslie had any idea that he was being trailed, and that that might be the reason he sent the car into the tree?"

"Of course, nobody can be certain of anything like that," Lillian returned, "but Hammond says he is willing to stake his reputation as a trailer against the possibility that Leslie did spot him."

"That's good enough for me," my father said. "Hammond is an exceedingly able man. Did he tell you just where the car is, so we can find it when he get out there?"

"We!" Lillian repeated scornfully. "Where do you get that 'we'? You know you're not able to stir from this room."

My father looked at her steadily.

Ready for Venture.

"Not only able, my dear Lillian, but even now marshaling my forces of mind and body for the venture."

"You mean marshaling your will power," Lillian retorted. "Your forces of mind may be all right, but if your bodily powers aren't at too low an ebb for you to take chances with them, then I'm going back to kindergarten. But I suppose there's no use arguing with you."

"Not the slightest," my father said, and there was that in his voice which stilled the protest on my lips.

"Now if you will please go back to the telephone," my father went on as if Lillian's objections to his leaving the apartment had not interrupted him, "I would like Hammond to receive these instructions—"

"One of the men is to mount guard over the car," he said, "until the state troopers can take over. Part of this job we'll have to delegate to them. One is to go on to the farm, present his credentials to your husband and stay there as an additional guard until we get there. The other two are to scout around in the nearby woods, keeping together for safety, to see if they can pick up Leslie's trail, or that of his helpers. Tell them that at night they are to go to the farmhouse, but I shall be there myself by then."

Lillian screwed up her face in a last futile protest, but said nothing aloud, except, "Shall I go now?"

"If you will, please," my father said, and she hurried out of the room while he lifted his head and looked speculatively at me.

"What is the status of things at the hotel?" he said. "Can Mary go to the farm for two or three days without causing trouble?"

"I doubt if you could pry her loose from the hotel with crowbars just now," I told him. "Noel was hurt, you know, and she will not leave him."

"Those injuries often mend very quickly," he said sententiously. "If he could go with her, would she object?"

Must See Veritzen.

"Not in the least," I told him, "but it isn't her objection that will matter; it is Philip Veritzen's."

"Then I must see Philip Veritzen at once," he said with decision. "As soon as Lillian comes back from the telephone, will you go to it, get Mr. Veritzen on the wire, and tell him it is vitally imperative that he come to this address at once to see you. Do not mention me over the telephone. Do you think he will come down here without knowing why he has been summoned?"

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Aug. 31.

Favorable planetary influences exist on this day, with many opportunities for enterprise and initiative. A change of plans or surroundings may be needed to accomplish this. But refrain from wrangles and take pains not to run counter to the law. Inventions, the novel and the new are under favorable aspects. Be careful with funds, neither borrowing nor lending, and take precaution against fraud, trickery and duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of opportunity and new enterprise; there is a prospect of change, travel or removal. New matters are uppermost. Use extra precaution with money, which may be subject to fraud, scheming and treachery. Shun quarrels that might involve legal entanglements.

A child born on this day may be energetic, inventive, original and fond of change. It may have a unique talent in such directions, gaining by the underhanded plots of others.

The unluckiest girl is the one whose vacation occurs the last two weeks in September—when the sun-tan fad has passed.

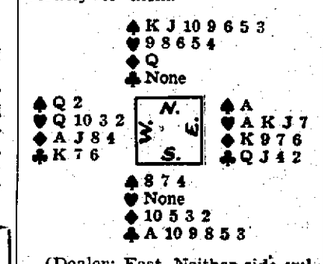
"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT WHAT THEY SEEM

Top cards such as aces and ace-kings usually are considered the most positive values in the deck. They are far from sure things, however, since any one of them may get knocked off, in a suit contract, by a ruff, and anyone of them may have to be discarded in a No Trump contract on a run of somebody's long suit, unless there is adequate protection to stop it.

All of this is just another way of saying that the surest values of all are distributional values when the cards are arranged favorably to them.



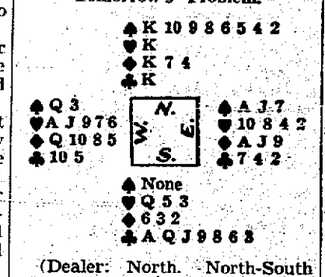
(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

This hand got an interesting whirl at the two tables of a team game. Everything went exactly the same up to a certain point at both tables. East started with 1-Club, West bid 1-Heart, North 1-Spade and East 4 Hearts. This was left unmolested at one table and five odd were made with the loss of one trick in clubs and one in trumps.

At the other table South overcalled the 4-Hearts with 4-Spades, which West doubled. This also made five odd, with the loss of just one trick in each major, following a heart lead.

It is interesting to note that North and South had only about one and a half quick tricks, as many players count them.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

If North opens with 1-Spade here and South finally doubles West's 4-Hearts, why should North not take out the double?

MOOSE LODGE BOWLING TEAM DISPUTES MT. VERNON TRAVELING RECORD

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

LATE last spring, a Cambridge, O., bowling club traveled 2574 miles to engage in match and tournament competition.

The American Bowling Congress Bulletin, official organ of the popular winter sport, awarded the palm leaf to the Cambridge clouters as the traveling champions.

This month's issue of the A. B. C. journal present a new claimant to the traveling record.

The team in question is Ringer's Cafe of Mt. Vernon, frequently seen in action at the Meder Recreation alleys, and the claim is presented by Dale Porter.

According to Dale's argument, the Mt. Vernon team traveled 3200 miles to participate in various bowling enterprises last winter.

The Mt. Vernon team's record is not unchallenged. The new challenger, and, might we say, new champion is the Mansfield Moose No. 2 team, with D. Donald Renner the spokesman for the lodgemen.

The keglers traveled an estimated distance of 4210 miles in their jaunts over the mid-west during the 1938-39 season, Renner claims.

Being acquainted wtih the Moose club's schedule, we believe their claim of a new record is justified. . . . until somebody offers a better one, of course.

The Moose itinerary last winter included appearances in Rockfort and Aurora, Ill., Kokomo, Ind., and Detroit, Mich., not to mention shorter hops to Cleveland, Delaware, Akron, Collinwood, Cuyahoga Falls, Barberton, Orrville, Mt. Vernon, Wooster and Akron.

Renner's teammates on the hops around the country were Ray Shively, Halsey Hipp, Pete Grohol, Jimmy Weems and Edward Meder.

TOUGH EVEN THEN!

TEN YEARS AGO: With Freddy Carver yielding only four hits, Hughes-Keenan defeated the All-Stars, 6-3, to square the series for the city softball title. . . . Fred C. Buckholtz, a pitcher for the Mansfield Ohio State league team from 1906 to 1909, was a visitor in the city. . . . Earl Herrick collected five hits as Mansfield Midgets trimmed Pavonia Juniors, 22-17, at Davey Field.

A neighboring city football coach was asked about his team's prospects this year. His answer: We have as good a team as last season. . . . but perhaps it isn't. . . . On the other hand it may be better." That's what you'd call staying on both sides of the fence.

* * *

"Come on, fellows, the season doesn't end until Sept. 10." overheard at the ball game the other night.

PRIZE BALLYHOO—If you think Mike Jacobs and his high-powered publicity agents won't make the most of the 20-round angle to the Louis-Pastor match, signed for Detroit, Sept. 20, you have another guess coming. That's the longest distance scheduled for any heavyweight title mix since Dempsey and Willard. As far as the final result is concerned, the 20 rounds don't mean a thing. However, from a ballyhoo angle, it'll be worth many a dollar at the box office.

CHAMPIONS . . . MAYBE!

Herbert O. Crisler, starting his second year as head coach at Michigan, can see a Big Ten championship and an undefeated season . . . on paper. The headline heroes—backs and ends—who carried the ball for the Wolverines as they came back from a four-year slump last fall, are back almost en masse and with several talented additions from the freshman crop. But what is this we hear about the discouraging tackle and guard situation at the Ann Arbor school?

"It would be interesting if one of these guys who take various and sundry polls to determine the state of mind and heart of the citizens of the U. S. A. would instigate a poll in Findlay to find out how many broken hearts are there following the invasion of the Braves." "Billy" writes. "Billy," apparently refers to the double victory.

"Add Things We Don't Know and Can't Figure Out: Why the Green Sox were booked for two exhibition games . . . after playing seven league tussles in four days. . . . While in the thick of the pennant struggle and with a sadly shattered mound corps. . . . It has fans talking and whispering things about the club not being supposed to win"—Fremont Messenger.

MIXED DOUBLES LEAGUE KEGLERS MEET THURSDAY

Organization plans for the mixed doubles bowling league will be discussed at a meeting of bowlers at the Meder Recreation alleys at 8:30 p. m. Thursday. All bowlers interested in entering the league are urged to attend the meeting.

The Reds defeated the Giants, 3 to 2, and the Panthers won over the Tigers, 6 to 2, in Friendly House baseball tournament games yesterday.

Record Field Looms

D. E. Carey of Zanesville, 1938 Champion, to Defend Title In Two-Day Tourney.

MANSFIELD will be back on the golf map again this week when the Ohio Seniors golf association tournament is staged at the Westbrook Country club Thursday and Friday.

Every section of the state will be represented in this year's tournament, which is expected to draw a field of 100 golfers whose ages range from 50 to well into the 80's.

Carey Defends Title.

Included in the field will be D. E. Carey of Zanesville, who won the tournament championship last year.

A golfer who can hold his own in competition with shotmakers many years his junior, Carey will be one of the favorites in the 36-hole tournament this week.

Eighteen holes will be played Thursday and the tournament will be concluded with the final 18 Friday. A feature of the Thursday program will be the annual banquet and meeting to be held in the Westbrook club house, T. R. Barnes of Mansfield, tournament committee chairman, said.

The tournament, which has been held at Westbrook every year since it was organized in 1928 except once, will be divided into six classes. The first class is for golfers more than 80 years of age, with the last division for players between the ages of 50 and 55.

Prizes will be awarded to low gross and net champions in each division as well as to the tournament champion.

Mansfield Represented.

Many veteran golfers of Mansfield and vicinity, including Barnes, E. D. Baxter, Harry S. Black, James M. Cook, C. S. Dickey, J. H. Finefrock, Charles H. Keating, E. M. Olin, L. W. Olson, W. J. Spreng, W. M. Weldon and T. R. Sammons, are expected to compete.

Keefe Beats Gadfield, Meets Defending Champ.

Bob Keefe, one of the city's more promising younger players, advanced to the semi-finals in The News-Journal senior tennis tournament in the singles division when he defeated Frank Gadfield in a quarter-final match at the Woodlawn court, yesteday.

Beaten in the first set, 7 to 5, Keefe rallied splendidly in the middle set to win 6 to 0, and cinched the match with a 6 to 3 triumph.

Keefe's foe in the semi-finals will be Bob Enos, the defending champion.

Most Popular Brave To Get Watch Saturday.

The identity of the "most popular player" on the Mansfield baseball club's roster will be revealed at Saturday night's game at the Fairground between the Braves and Fostoria, Frank W. Rawlinson, Fairground concessionaire, announced today.

The player, selected during the season by ballot published in the scorecard, will be presented with a wrist watch provided by the Rogers and Company Jewelers before the game Saturday.

COMMERCIAL C LOOP BOWLERS MEET THURSDAY

Backers and captains of teams seeking membership in the Commercial C bowling league are requested to attend an important meeting to be held at the Meder alleys at 8 p. m. Thursday.

As this is a league for inexperienced bowlers, officers of the league invite all keglers wishing places on teams to attend the meeting. There are a number of openings on the various teams, it was explained.

Carry U. S. Davis Cup Hopes Against Australia

Who Stole Gas From Gas House? Blades Should Start Probe

Cardinals Drop Eighth In 10 Games In East to Lose Ground to Idle Redlegs.

By SID FEDER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

BY THE WAY, does anyone remember the St. Louis Cardinals? Ray Blades, who still has a slight recollection of them as a large ball of fire a couple of weeks back, is all for a congressional investigation to find out who took the gas from the Gas House Gang.

For, the Redbirds, at this writing, bear as much resemblance to the red-hot pennant contenders of mid-August as a pail of cement to a ham on rye. And, while the National league-leading Cincinnati Reds haven't been setting any houses afire with less than .500 ball on their current eastern swing, the second-place Cards have looked worefully pathetic.

Stung By Bees.

They were handed a 2-1 setback by the Boston Bees yesterday, their second in three starts against Casey Stengel's stingers and their eighth in ten outings in the east. Richard Merriwell Errickson beat the Gas Housers with eight hits in his first start since June 28.

This humiliating loss not only left the Cards 5½ games back of the Reds, but pushed them to where they're only two games in front of the third-place Cubs. The Reds and Cubs, and every other National league club, were given a day off by old man weather.

Over in the American league, the New York Yankees lost and the Boston Red Sox won, leaving the Yanks only 12 games in front.

The outstanding feature of the day was the daffy ninth inning which saw the Detroit Tigers blow a five-run lead and come right back to take the game from the world champions, 7-6. The defeat, the Yanks' first in the west, ended their ten-game winning streak.

Roof Falls In.

Going into the ninth, Buck Newsom and the Detroits were riding along on a 6-1 edge. Then the roof fell in. Six hits, including Joe DiMaggio's game-tying three-run homer, wiped out the entire Tiger edge. But, with Fireman Johnny Murphy doing the tossing the last of the ninth, Charley Gehringer and Pinky Higgins treated themselves to a double apiece to push the winner across.

The Red Sox had to call on Ted Williams to turn the trick for them against the Cleveland Indians, 7-4.

There were no other games scheduled in the American league.

Host To Fall Beagle Trials

Gardner's Farm Site of 12th Annual Competition.

The 12th annual fall trials of the Olentangy beagle club will be held on "Mud" Gardner's farm, east of Mansfield, Sunday and Monday, Roscoe McGinty, secretary of the club, announced today.

The Olentangy club was recently reorganized by Mansfield interests and a new clubhouse has been erected on the field site.

Beagle dog enthusiasts expected to enter are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Criswell of Mt. Gilead, Parker LaMoore of Columbus, LeRoy White of Fremont and G. G. Black of Perrysburg.

Mansfield dogs already entered are Brown Boy, owned by H. G. Biddison; Fairfax Peg, owned by Charles Brown; Blackfork Singer, owned by A. B. Russell; Roby's Babe, owned by C. I. Robinson; John's Red, owned by John Weisbarth; Heston's Queen and Heston's Bessie, owned by Heston brothers; Tom's Copper and Blackfork Clipper, owned by Flenner and son; Phyl and Nip, owned by M. M. Truax, and Diamond Queen, owned by Neal Franks.

H. L. Pollock of New Concord and W. E. Fahrenholz of Middletown will serve as judges.

BUS COMPANY TO SEND SPECIAL TO GRID GAME

The Greyhound Lines has arranged to provide a special coach for Mansfield fans planning to attend the football game between the Cleveland Rams and Ohio college all-stars in the Cleveland stadium Wednesday, Sept. 6, W. H. Palm, terminal manager of the company, announced today. The coach will leave the station, 54 North Diamond street, at 6 p. m. and return after the game.

The fare price will include a ticket on or near the 50-yard line, Palm said. Reservations may be made at the bus station.

Fans To See Classy Teams

DeLuxe, Massillon Clubs Mix on Benefit Bill.

Two of the finest softball teams in the state will be seen in action at the Fairground Sunday when the three-star athletic program is staged for the benefit of "Darby" Yarman, well known Mansfield athletic figure.

The teams are the DeLuxe Cabs of Mansfield, runners-up in this year's state tournament, and the J. & M. Grills of Massillon, who also advanced to the state elimination this year.

The Mansfield and Massillon teams have met twice this year, with the series even. The Cabs won over the Massillon club, 10 to 4, and lost a 3 to 1 decision.

In the other games on the program, the Mansfield Merchants girls' softball team will meet the North Ridgeville lassies, runners-up in this year's state feminine tournament, and the American Legion junior baseball club will meet the Yunckers Sports of some 10 years.

The Merchants were originally scheduled to meet the Youngstown state champions, but the management of the Mansfield team was notified today that the Ohio queens would be unable to play.

Merchants to Tackle Rosenblums, Butler.

The famous Rosenblum girls' softball team of Cleveland has been signed for a game with the Mansfield Merchants at a site yet to be selected in the city, Monday, Labor Day.

The Mansfield girls' team is scheduled to face a men's club in the sports feature of the homecoming celebration in Butler at 1:30 p. m., Saturday.

Braves Halted By Rain; Hens Invade Thursday

Stovermen Offered Chance to Regain Fifth Place In Game at Lima Tonight.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

RABID feminine fans lost a "Ladies' Night," sponsors of the Mansfield baseball club took a hefty poke in the pocketbook and the Braves were denied a chance to gain ground in the nip-and-tuck Ohio State league race last night when rain and hail made the Fairground diamond unfit for a ball game.

Of course, Mansfield, slated to meet Lima, may not have won the ball game and the crowd may not have reached record-breaking proportions as expected had conditions permitted play, but, with the Braves going as they are, it might be difficult to convince their followers that a win and advancement to fifth place would have been denied last night.

Mansfield, apparently, is more baseball-conscious today than it has been any time this season, and the reason for all of this enthusiasm is emphasized by the August records.

Set Fast Pace.

But the Braves' pace is not anywhere near the August gait of the spectacular Lima Pandas, who have compiled a miraculous record to climb from the basement to the fifth slot and a place in the tight pennant battle.

On Aug. 1, Lima was in the cellar, 16½ games out of first place and three back of the Braves.

Since that date, Lima has accumulated 21 victories against only nine losses for an almost unbelievable .700 percentage. The Pandas reduced their margin from first place to six games in less than a month.

Mansfield, despite a series of injuries, has played the next best brand of ball in the league since Aug. 1. The Braves have registered 16 victories against 11 defeats, and today stand only half a game behind the Pandas, four behind the fourth-place Findlays and five behind Fostoria and Fremont, tied for the runner-up position.

The team that has hit the skids is Findlay. The Oilers have won only nine of their last 32 ball games, and the 16½ game advantage they held over Mansfield and Lima has dwindled to a few ball games. August records of the state teams follow:

	W	L	Pct.
Lima	21	9	.700
MANSFIELD	16	11	.593
Fremont	17	14	.548
Tiffin	15	17	.469
Fostoria	15	19	.441
Findlay	9	23	.281

Championships hopes of the Mansfield and Lima clubs are too slim to consider seriously as the Braves and Pandas have only 17 and 14 games, respectively, to play, but both teams are in a splendid position to gain berths in the Shaughnessy playoff which will involve the four top teams.

Return Thursday.

The Braves' next appearance will be made at the Fairground against the leading Tiffin Mudhens at 8:30 p. m. Thursday. This will be a Merchants' night game, and it is quite likely that it will lure a near-capacity crowd.

Seven Teams Nurse Championship Hopes In Torrid News-Journal Golf Loop Race

THERE are seven foursomes which have a chance to win The News-Journal Class B golf league championship as the race swings down the home stretch with four weeks of play remaining on the schedule.

Only 10 points separate the pace-making Central Fruit club wielders and the seventh-place Richman Clothes, and just about anything can happen before the 1939 curtain slides down.

The hectic race, the closest championship battle staged in the league in its six years existence, finds the leaders pacing the field with a slim three-point advantage.

Whether the Central Fruit club can maintain its advantage in the matches at Possum Run Thursday is unpredictable for it has to face the runner-up Harvey Sample Shoes.

A victory for the Shoemen will not make their task of winning the title any easier for the Ohio Public Service team, in third place a point behind, can take advantage of the battle between the two top clubs and possibly sneak into the lofty perch. The O. P. S. team meets the Elks Lodge club.

Al's Kicks and the Bissman company will be fighting for possession of fourth place in the race. Al's Kicks face the Auxter Motors and the Bissman shotmakers tackle the Richman Clothes. The News-Journal outfit, at present holding down sixth place, meets the Mansfield Metal Vaults in the other contest.

Bucyrus Pacer Wins Feature

Michael's Brooklyn Takes State Fair Event.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Ohio's best pacing horses went to the post today in the race carrying the biggest purse on the Ohio State fair race program — the $2,000 Ohio pacing derby.

A second important race was the director of agriculture stake for 2-year-old trotters with a $1,000 purse. Two overnight events, a 2:15 trot and classified pace, were also on the card.

Brooklyn, a chestnut mare owned by Walter J. Michael, Bucyrus, won the Dayton Manufacturing company trophy in the 2-year-old pacing stake yesterday in straight heats. The victor, trained by A. T. Morrison, Sandusky, was clocked in 2:11 and 2:10.

Hurls No-Hitter In Final Game

LOUDONVILLE—Climaxing an already brilliant season, Bobby Jordon of the F. O. E. team of the City Softball league hurled a no-hit, no-run victory over the Collegians, second-placers in the league yesterday. The score was 9-0.

Jordon, in chalking up his no-hitter, allowed six of his opponents to reach first base safely, three on walks and the remainder on his teammates' errors. In pitching his team to victory, the lodgemen clinched the second half title of the league and removed the necessity of a playoff in the circuit. The Eagles had won 11 straight during the first half campaign to cinch the first half bunting.

Outstanding on the offensive was Frank Ferris, who drove a long homerun over the centerfielders head in the second inning.

MANAGERS, NOTICE!

Managers of the Ling Canzols, Hi-Speeds, Mansfield Giants, Liberty park, Lucas, Ontario, Bellville and Lexington are requested to contact Oscar Ruhl at The News-Journal between 10 and 12 a. m. any day this week.

Yankees Open Final Visit Under Lights

But Welcoming Indians Were In No Mood for Home Runs; One Beat 'Em, 7-4.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The slugging Yankees waltzed into town today for their final visit of the year, but the welcoming Indians were in no mood for home runs.

Gangling Ted Williams, Boston's rookie outfielder stirred up quite some resentment against homers yesterday when he whacked one over the fence with the bases full to beat Cleveland, 7 to 4. It was the second successive day Williams had stopped the Tribe with a circuit smash.

The two-game Yankee series opens tonight under the stadium lights, with Al Milnar due to pitch for the Redskins and Lefty Gomez slated for the world champions. The final game is scheduled Friday.

Southpaw Harry Eisenstat blanked the Sox with two hits for four inning yesterday. Then a six-run deluge broke, aided by Lou Boudreau's error and climaxed by Williams' blow.

Floyd Stromme and Johnny Broaca finished for Cleveland, with the former giving up the final run in the sixth on two walks and two singles.

Cleveland couldn't do much with Wilfred Lefebvre, Boston's rookie hurler. They scored once in the fifth on a walk to Bruce Campbell and singles by Hal Trosky and Jeff Heath.

The rookie gave way to Joe Heaving, however, in the midst of a three-run outbreak in the eighht. Singles by Ken Keltner, Ray Mack and Rollie Hemsley, Sammy Hale's sacrifice fly and Campbell's triple accounted for the scores.

The victory was Boston's 11th in 19 starts against Cleveland. It dropped the Indians to two games behind Chicago in their battle for third place.

The Indians have eight more playing dates at home this season, leaving Sept. 8, and returning once more for a three-game series with Detroit Sept. 22 to 24.

82,000 To See 'Dream' Teams

All-Stars, Giants Kick Off In Chicago Tonight.

CHICAGO—(AP)— Two football "dream" teams meet in Soldier Field tonight before 82,000 spectators and the contest is likely to be a nightmare for one or the other.

The lure for the sellout crowd in the massive lakefront stadium is the sixth annual charity battle between the college All-Stars and the New York Giants, professional champions. It will be broadcast by MBS and NBC.

Both teams have everything any coach could desire in the way of talent, reserves, color and spirit. Each has a bevy of powerful runners, accurate passers and dependable kickers ready to operate behind sturdy forward walls.

In five previous all-star games, the college boys, seniors of the preceding season, have routed the pros twice. The pros won one game and the other two ended in ties.

Coach Steve Owen, husky pilot of the Giants, says he has three full teams ready to go against the high-spirited amateurs, but emphasized the fact his rivals had a squad of 60 players.

"We aren't playing a team," he added, "we are playing an army. But I can say the Giants are in fine condition and we have some new stuff to toss at the college boys. There's no telling what will happen in a game like this, but I think we stand a good chance."

CAUTIOUS MART CAUSES STOCKS TO RISE, FALL

Gains and Losses in Minor Fractions; Observers See Long War Negotiations.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market went the straight and narrow path today with a good deal of caution.

Prices lifted a little at the quiet opening but retreated in many cases later. Near the fourth hour, the ticker tape was slow and most gains and losses were in minor fractions.

Wall Street seemed fairly confident war over the Polish-German dispute would be avoided for the time being, but looked forward to long negotiations and perhaps the recurrence of crises.

Resistant most of the session were New York Central, Texas Corp., Anaconda, J. C. Penney, Owens-Illinois, Douglas Aircraft and Loft.

Unchanged or narrow were Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, General Electric, Du Pont, Pennsylvania railroad and American Smelting.

At home further declines in gasoline stocks, the decision of Texas to lift the shutdown of wells and restoration of crude oil prices were appetizing to followers of the shares in this group.

Estimates railroad freight carloadings for last week had risen about seasonally helped the rails.

Mental food for the boardrooms was provided in the assertion of "Iron Age" that further increases in the rate of steel production were likely.

Automotive buying of steel, the publication said, was expected to pick up after the labor day holiday, while railroad purchasing was already a "bright spot," and signs of a possible shortage of bottoms "draws attention to the shipbuilding industry."

Electric power production for the week ended Aug. 26, as reported by the Edison Electric Institute, dropped from the record peak of the preceding period, but the gain over the 1938 comparative remained at 10.3 per cent.

FREAK STORM LASHES CITY

Estimate Damage at $10,000; Bolt Strikes Home, Knocks Boy, Dog Unconscious.

before bringing it under control.

The entire second floor was gutted by the blaze. Damage was estimated by Marks at between $1,500 and $2,000.

At almost the same time firemen received a second call on Venum avenue where a power line had been blown down and had dropped on the wet top of a parked automobile. Firemen and Ohio Public Service lineman removed the line before any damage resulted.

12 Poles Felled.

The power line was one of several that was blown down. In addition 12 poles were felled by the severe wind, officials of the O. P. S. reported. They placed an estimate on the damage at $1,000.

Service on these streets was being restored today by the company.

Officials at the Mansfield Telephone company reported 300 having trouble. While none of the company's poles were down, they reported that numerous lines were torn down by falling trees and branches. Damage was placed at $1,000.

In South and Middle parks and North lake park which apparently bore the brunt of the damage, Frank Burton, park superintendent reported at least six large trees felled.

He said the rain which did not strike Maple lake park poured water in the North lake park pavilion and left several inches of silt on the floor.

A large tree on Carpenter road fell during the deluge and partially blocked the street for several hours until workmen removed a section from it.

The water which flooded the streets caused a number of autoists to call for assistance.

Police cruisers, Superintendent of Streets D. D. Orewiler and George Bolesky, superintendent of sewer maintenance, worked for several hours replacing manhole covers throughout the city that had been blown off by water rushing from the overloaded storm sewers.

One cover was reported to have been washed nearly 50 feet from the manhole.

At the Park avenue east subway, traffic over U. S. routes 42 and 30 was detoured for two hours until the water which flooded over the sidewalks had receded. Three feet of water was reported on North Main street just north of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

The wind caught the huge tent at the Estes market on Ashland road and ripped it from its moorings, destroying the covering, it was reported today.

WPA Worker Sold Oil 'Tapped' From Gas Company's Line.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Police arrested Henry Speaks, 23-year-old WPA worker, for "striking oil" and operating a "gusher" near the Capitol.

The oil, it seems, came from a gasoline company pipe line struck accidentally during sewer excavation. Police charged that Speaks sold it to a taxicab driver for six weeks.

Nation-Wide Theater Strike Closer In Union Scrap

RIVAL FORCES CLOSE PARLEY IN STALEMATE

Opposing Unions Fail to Reach Agreement; Mansfield Unions Would Follow Orders.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — Barring last minute eventualities, a nation-wide strike in the amusement industry was considered a virtual certainty today.

One of the final hopes for peace went glimmering when a conference between officials of the Associated Actors and Artistes of America, the parent A. F. of L. actors group, and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, the stagehands' union, ended in stalemate.

Expect Crisis Monday.

The crisis was expected Monday when a rehearsal is scheduled for a show starring Sophie Tucker, president of the American Federation of Actors, who was recently suspended by Actors Equity Association on a charge of treason. Miss Tucker was banned from the stage by Equity for leading the AFA into an alliance with the IATSE after it had been suspended by the 4-A group.

The cast is expected to refuse to work with Miss Tucker and the stagehands have threatened a counter-strike if an understudy is called in.

One of the major scenes of hostilities is expected to be Hollywood. There the screen actors guild may call a strike of film stars to disrupt the jobs of stagehands.

In retaliation, the IATSE has indicated it will call out all stagehands on Broadway or projectionists in motion picture houses throughout the country.

WOULD FOLLOW ORDERS

If the order to strike is nation-wide, Mansfield's five picture houses will be affected, as both the stage hands union and the motion picture projectionists have signified their intention of "walking out" if they are so ordered.

L. A. Schrack, head of stage hands, said they would follow orders from the national group, but he doubted if it would extend to the smaller cities.

Guy Tinkey, head of the motion picture projectionists, said he would call a meeting of his men only if a general strike order came through, but that they would fall in line with the IATSE. There are about 24 men in the two organizations here.

TAKES UP TAXI CONTRACT AGAIN

School Board Makes New Attempt To Settle Question Tonight.

The Mansfield board of education will make a second attempt at a special meeting tonight to award a contract for transporting handicapped children to the city's special schools during the next term.

The letting was scheduled for last week but the board rejected the two bids it had received and boosted the amount of indemnity required of the successful bidder in the event of an accident. The board set the amounts at $25,000 for cabs with one pasesnger and $50,000 for those with two or more passengers.

CLERGY 'DUPED'

U. S. Says Priests Defrauded in Whisky Receipts Deals.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Dave Pinkussohn, one time "airplane bootlegger," was seized by federal agents and charged today with operating a confidence game in which seven Catholic priests were defrauded of about $25,000.

Postal inspectors said Pinkussohn defrauded the priests in whisky warehouse receipts deals.

The investigators said Pinkussohn called on the clergymen and offered to bottle and market the supplies represented by their receipts at a substantial profit. "Bottling fees" ranged from $350 to $2,900 in addition to the receipts themselves.

Pinkussohn was alleged to have sold the receipts thus obtained and in many cases to have returned to his victims and sold them counterfeit warehouse receipts with the promise that the bottling and market deal would be repeated.

DOBBIN ON THE RUN, OHIO FAIR EXHIBITS SHOW

Horsepower Driving Horse Off American Farm, $1,500,000 Display Indicates.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—A record-breaking $1,500,000 display of machinery at the Ohio State fair illustrated today how horsepower is driving the horse off the average American farm.

Gasoline engines and electric motors are being put to every conceivable task in the field, the barnyard and the farm home.

The farmer who once toiled with a hoe through endless rows of corn can now sit at the wheel of a tractor and cultivate four rows at one time.

Where he once used a horse to cultivate 12 acres of corn a day, he now can take a two-row cultivator and cover 25 to 30 acres in the same time.

J. H. Hardgrove of Columbus, who has been selling tractors for 25 years, asserted that "the tractor is replacing the horse almost entirely on the American farm."

Approximately 75 per cent of the farmers now use tractors, compared with 15 per cent 20 years ago, he said. They use them for cultivating, cutting and threshing wheat, cutting, hauling and storing hay, and for operating other farm machinery.

In fact, the tractor has been made so easy to handle that four girls and four boys daily stage a square dance on tractors at the fair grounds.

Twenty years ago the manufacturers offered tractors weighing 6,000 pounds and up, equipped with heavy steel-rimmed wheels with crude lugs. The price was $1,000 and up. Today a sleek, 2,100-pound tractor, equipped with rubber tires, can be had for $495, Hardgrove said, and they do more work at less the expence of their predecessors.

Expect 50,000 Today.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Their hopes buoyed by record-breaking, paying crowds, officials predicted that between 50,000 and 60,000 persons would jam the Ohio State fair today.

The forecast was made after a paid attendance of 37,016 was chalked up yesterday, compared with 32,585 a year ago. Director of Agriculture John T. Brown said the "no pass" rule that has prevailed throughout the fair will be relaxed Friday when all children under 12 will be admitted free.

Yesterday's festivities were highlighted by the visit of Gov. John W. Bricker, who strolled through exhibit halls of the junior fair, chatting with young farmers and girls.

Then, dedicating the new $160,000 Junior fair building, Bricker took cognizance of complaints that Junior fair exhibitors had no place in which to quarters their swine and promised a new barn and a new girls' dormitory.

Two 4-H club girls broke precedent yesterday by winning places on the state dairy judging team which will represent Ohio this fall at the National Dairy show in San Francisco. They were Mary Powell of Steubenville and Ruth McCollough of Mingo Junction.

SHOE REPAIR? GET A TICKET THEN, NAZIS SAY

Wife of Newsman in Europe Finds Even Soap Powder's a Hard Thing to Get.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dorothy Oechsner, wife of Frederick Oechsner, United Press News manager for Central Europe, describes in the following dispatch the plight of a housewife in Germany under the new ration card system, which is applicable to foreign as well as native residents.

By DOROTHY OECHSNER
(Written For the United Press)

BERLIN—A special permit is now required to have a pair of shoes repaired in Germany.

I saw two girls standing at the door of a shoe store asking all who entered whether they had their ration cards with them.

I stopped at five filling stations and couldn't buy gasoline. Our regular station hadn't a drop. Thirty-two of its men including three foremen had been called to the colors.

There is a great rush to buy up materials not yet restricted. By 8 a. m., there are long queues in front of stores and although there was no panic, policemen were called to several stores yesterday because of the congestion. Some stores closed voluntarily until the rush subsided.

To an American who has been a "hausfrau" in Berlin for 10 years, the restrictions on soap was most strange.

Rules Say 'Yes.'

When two red-faced little community nurses called at my home delivering ration cards I told them we were Americans, and asked whether we needed or were entitled to cards. They consulted the inevitable "rules of application" and found that the cards "shall be issued without distinction of nationality or race." They left three cards, for my husband, me and the maid. I could hardly wait to use my card, it was such a novelty.

At my regular "drogerie," an approximation of an American corner drug store, I presented all three cards. I had to give my name, the maid's name, my husband's name and occupation, and answer other questions.

Then I said, "I'll take some laundry soap, bath soap and a large box of powder."

"A large box!" the clerk exclaimed. "You are three persons in your household, madam, and under regulations you are entitled to this much."

He brought out three packages that seemed as if they would have rattled in a thimble.

"Well," I said, "it might have been worse. That will be enough for this week."

"This week, madam? That is your supply for a month."

CHAPTER XXIII

Mrs. Selby stood still, and now there was real concern in her face.

"You don't mean that you would like to die, surely?" she asked in perplexity.

Elizabeth shrugged slim shoulders beneath the silk shirt she was wearing with the baggy trousers which had shocked her hostess but which Mr. Selby had pronounced becoming.

"What would it matter! I probably shouldn't know anything about it," she said flippantly.

"My dear," Mrs. Selby said in a motherly voice, "that almost sounds as if you are not very happy."

The girl's beautiful eyes met her own.

"Do you think anyone is really—very happy?" she asked. It was so terribly disconcerting, and Mrs. Selby felt bewildered as she answered helplessly:

"I like to think most people are reasonably happy. I have had a very happy life myself. I have always been quite contented." But even as she spoke she was asking herself whether it was quite the truth, or whether—had it been possible to alter things—she would have liked them to be a little different.

Of course, one became used to life, as it were. One got into a rut from which it was difficult to escape. Still it hurt her kind heart to hear this girl, who was still on the threshold of life, talking so cynically.

Perhaps she and Roy had quarreled, she thought in quick relief, and that explained it, for even modern young people sometimes took things very seriously, and with the best intention in the world, she said, with her hand on the girl's shoulder:

"My dear, I am sure he didn't really mean to be unkind."

Elizabeth repeated the last words blankly.

"Mean to be unkind?"

"Roy," Mrs. Selby explained. "I know he is thoughtless sometimes—but you know, without being told, that he is very fond of you, and would never willingly say or do anything which might cause you pain."

"Oh," Elizabeth said, and she bit her lips to check a smile. "I wasn't thinking of Roy," she said gently after a moment. "And he hasn't done anything. It's only—"

And then suddenly she was laughing again. "I'm afraid I talk an awful lot of rubbish sometimes."

Roy came racing up behind them.

"Where have you been?" he demanded breathlessly. "You said the orchard and—"

Elizabeth interrupted coolly.

"I changed my mind. I was up in the oak tree."

"Cheating!" he accused her with boyish approach.

"I like cheating," Elizabeth retorted.

"You wouldn't like it if I cheated when we play games," he said sharply.

A shrug of her shoulders was the only answer, and Mrs. Selby said quickly, with a view to pouring oil on waters which she imagined were growing troubled:

"Well, come and have a nice cool drink. You both look very hot. Where's Barbara?"

"She's just come in," Mr. Selby informed them from the lounge window. "And at the moment she is on the telephone, talking to someone at great length."

"One of her boy friends, I expect," Elizabeth ventured.

Mrs. Selby cast a quizzical glance at Elizabeth's unruffled face.

"She hasn't any heart. That's the real trouble," she decided. "I expect she takes after her poor mother."

Barbara came bounding into the room.

"It was Kim!" she announced in a voice which tried hard to express complete indifference. "He's coming down. He said it was too grilling to stay in town, and could we put him up for a couple of days, so, of course, I said 'Yes'."

"Without consulting your mother?" Mr. Selby ventured mildly, but his family ignored him.

"About time he did come," Roy grumbled. "He hasn't been here for—well, not since you went to Paris, Elizabeth."

"How tragic!" she said mockingly. "I wonder you have not had a complete nervous breakdown."

"Don't you like Kim Lawless?" Mrs. Selby asked in faint surprice, but Elizabeth did not answer. She had walked again to the wide-open French window and was staring out at the sunshine.

She had not expected that Kim would visit High Chimneys while she was there; or didn't he know? Not that it mattered one way or the other, for she had determinedly shut his memory out of her heart since the day she knew about Penelope.

Married! Oh, well, why worry? But a fierce little look crept into her eyes as she glanced in the direction of the sundial.

"Love makes Time pass away; Time makes Love pass away."

Yes! It was amazing how suddenly her love for Kim Lawless had died. Just at first she had suffered, but now it was over and done with, and if ever he involuntarily crept into her thoughts it was only as Penelope's husband.

Poor Penelope!

She's becoming quite neurotic," Miss Thornley sometimes said of her elder niece. "I suppose the only thing is to leave her absolutely alone, but really—sometimes I am most apprehensive."

Elizabeth had listened in silence, remembering her sister's tearless agony that morning when the little wedding-ring had betrayed her secret.

Penelope had made her swear never to tell anyone.

"I promised Kim," she said. "And it's all over and done with, and I only want to forget it."

But Elizabeth knew that it could never be forgotten.

And now he was coming to High Chimneys, and she was conscious of a cold curiosity to see how she would be affected by their meeting. Somehow she could not believe that it would make the very slightest difference to her.

And yet her mother had said that once you really loved somebody—really loved somebody—it was always the same, no matter what happened, forever and ever!

"It won't be like that with me," she thought, and suddenly it seemed a thing at which to weep.

There were moments when Elizabeth felt as if she was no longer herself; as if someone had taken away the sensitive loving heart which had once been herself, and had given her something much colder and more cynical in its place.

For now nothing seriously mattered. She was never really conscious of acute pain or anger or pity or of any deep emotion; only of being urged on by the feeling that as one had to get through life one might as well do it as quickly and as pleasantly as possible, without allowing other people to become near or dear.

She liked being at High Chimneys. She could sleep well, for one thing and, at first, after she knew about Penelope, her greatest trouble had been that she could not sleep.

Endless wakeful nights, during which restless hands seemed to be tugging at her, refusing to allow her to forget or to find peace.

Often she had walked the room until daylight came. Sometimes she had felt that she must strike her head against the wall or against something hard, in order to find unconsciousness.

But in the end she had won, and now the troubled waves of life had subsided, and she looked out with indifferent eyes over placid waters.

Barbara's voice suddenly broke in upon her thoughts.

"I didn't tell Kim you were here so it will be a pleasant surprise for him. You like Kim, don't you, Betty?"

Barbara had abbreviated the longer "Elizabeth" to "Betty."

"It's so much more matey," she had explained cheerfully.

"We all like Kim?" Mrs. Selby answered for her. "When did he say we might expect him, dear?"

"To dinner—and I told him not to be late."

Save Money ... By Paying Your Bills

The average man of 1939 little realizes that a Finance Company can actually save him money and trouble. But be convinced by the statements made by a reputable business man of Mansfield: "I owed over $350 to about 9 different merchants. The lack of cash to settle these bills presented quite a problem to me. Each week I received more demanding requests from my creditors than the week before. MY CREDIT WAS VOIDED EVERYWHERE and 'cash with merchandise' became the order of the day. One evening my wife persuaded me to TRANSFER MY DEBTS TO ONE CREDITOR, re-establish my credit with the merchants and regain my piece of mind. The finance company LOANED ME MONEY ENOUGH TO MEET MY BILLS and ARRANGED THE PAYMENTS IN SUCH EASY MONTHLY TERMS, that at no time in the future was I ever bothered with financial worries. Oh yes, you ask how I saved money! Well, I FOUND THAT MY CREDITORS WERE GLAD and WILLING TO DISCOUNT MY BILLS FOR IMMEDIATE CASH SETTLEMENT."

HITLER STICKS TO DEMANDS IN POLISH QUARREL

Wants Poland to Send Envoy to Berlin, Give Up Danzig Within 24 Hours.

torial changes were made and presumably about one-third of the present Poland had been whittled away.

The impression in London was that this would mean a sort of German protectorate over what was left of Poland, although it was considered significant that German newspapers this afternoon talked about the "common interest of Soviet Russia and Germany in Poland.

The German communication to Britain was understood to have cited a British offer in an earlier note to Hitler to act as a "go between" for Berlin and Warsaw, if both parties desired. It was on this basis that Hitler suggested Britain hasten to ask Poland to send a representative to Berlin.

It was believed that Hitler left the implication that he would expect some such Polish dignitary as President Ignacy Moscicki, Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz or Foreign Minister Josef Beck to make the trip to Berlin, which British circles saw as a repetition of the climax of the 1938 partitioning of Czechoslovakia when President Emil Hacha made the trip from Prague to the Reich's capital.

Poland, which continued its mobilization, would not even consider such a move, it was believed here, and had so intimated to Germany.

Britain kept in close touch with France on the developments and also filled in other governments. U. S. Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy visited the foreign office for a 50-minute talk this afternoon.

An informant said he understood that Hitler already had received an intimation that it would not be feasible for a Polish representative to go to Berlin within the specified time limit. This information also was received with reserve, pending official comment.

Extends Demand.

Hitler in recent days, in his various messages, had extended his demands. He had said he must have not only Danzig but the corridor. And he had raised the question of new concessions.

It was reported that now Hitler wanted an "economic agreement" with what remained of Poland after territorial changes. Informants said that their impression was that such an agreement might reduce Poland almost ot protectorate status.

This information came as the cabinet was ending a two-hour session, considering Hitler's message which was received here last night.

It was said that no further meeting had been decided upon and that the question of calling parliament into special session before its scheduled meeting next Tuesday had not been discussed.

As the meeting ended, it was said that a further message to Hitler was probable.

Takes New Turn.

This was taken as an indication of a sudden turn in the situation. It had been expected that a reply would be automatic. But it was recalled that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in his speech in the house of commons yesterday indicated that there might not be another message from Britain to Hitler.

When the cabinet met, it had been understood that one thing to be considered was whether last night's message had been Hitler's latest or his last word.

Before the meeting the government had communicated Hitler's message to the Polish government, through Sir Howard Kennard, ambassador to Poland, and to the British dominions through their high commissioners, who met with Sir Thomas Inskip, colonial secretary.

A little while before the meeting a specially chartered airplane arrived at Heston airdrome, in the North London suburbs, from Tempelhof airdrome, Berlin, with three passengers.

Berlin confirmed that the plane had left there at 5 a. m. (11 p. m. EST) Tuesday and that no member of the British embassy staff was aboard it. Identity of the passengers was not disclosed.

Hitler Answer Arrives.

Hitler's answer to the British message which Sir Neville Henderson, ambassador to Germany, had taken to Hitler by airplane Monday arrived last night.

It was put at once before Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, and experts of the foreign office spent almost all night examining it in the most minute detail.

Chamberlain and Halifax conferred at length on it, and afterward Halifax conferred with his key foreign office aides.

The British felt they had momentarily at least gained the upper hand in a tremendous struggle of wills between Hitler and Chamberlain, on which depended the issue of peace or war.

They believed that Hitler was still hesitating to make the momentous decision to use force upon Poland.

The Children's Hour—During War Crisis

Rehearsals are held daily to familiarize the youngsters with the procedure. Older children will assemble at their schools and will be in teachers' charge.

NAZIS 'GLAD' TO MEDIATE, BUT--

Berlin Sources Say Offers to Negotiate 'Welcome' But Cite 'Irrevocable Demands.'

Informed quarters remarked that nobody should be surprised if in the next hours and days there is considerable airplane flying back and forth between Berlin and London.

Informed persons continued to warn correspondents that the situation was serious, but their own attitude was one of confidence that things were coming Germany's way.

The possibility that Foreign Minister Josef Beck of Poland might come to Berlin was neither affirmed nor denied. (In London diplomatic quarters there was a suggestion that Hitler might want a special Polish envoy sent to Berlin; it was not disclosed whether the fuehrer definitely suggested this in his latest note to Britain.)

In the Wilhelmstrasse there was a constant coming and going of diplomatic limousines. The fact that the Belgian ambassador's car was parked directly before the office of Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop gave rise to speculation in the crowds before the chancellery that Brussels might become the scene of a mediation conference.

ing 'intolerably criticized' the German-Soviet pact."

She also reported differences between Joseph Goebbels and Joachim von Ribbentrop, the German propaganda and foreign ministers, over the pact.

Mme. Tabouis said she believed, on the basis of reports from well-informed circles in Rome, that Premier Mussolini plans to make a last-minute appeal for an international conference.

Evacuation of women and children from Paris was accelerated, but at the same time authorities welcomed every delay as operating in favor of the democracies.

"It would seem that today we should know where we stand," said Premier Edouard Daladier to newspapermen, referring to the latest note of Chancellor Hitler to Berlin.

These Berlin-London exchanges, it was pointed out, have given France time practically to complete mobilization, and provided Britain and Poland with the opportunity to fill in military gaps.

France, Britain and Poland, without much hope that it will do any good, accepted the proffers of King Leopold of Belgium and Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands to use their good offices for peace. But no machinery seems to be in motion for Leopold and Wilhelmina actually to start mediation.

Abolish Versailles, Seen as Rome's Demand.

ROME—(INS)—A demand for elimination of the last vestiges of the Versailles treaty will be thrust forward in the European "peace plan" which Premier Benito Mussolini is set to present if Anglo-German negotiations break down, it was believed today.

This was hinted in an editorial in Popolo d'Italia, Il Duce's own newspaper in Milan, which it was assumed Mussoloni inspired and Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, wrote.

"In order to remove the ills afflicting Europe for all time, it will be necessary to eliminate Versailles," the paper said.

"Out with Versailles! Out with European and non-European pains!

"Il Duce is working without a moment's respite to try to heal Europe . . . but its peoples will never have peace until they are cured, and they will not be cured until they have eliminated without exception all the causes of their ills."

The Premier consistently has pounded into Chancellor Hitler's ear that there must be no war over Danzig. This was relayed to Hitler at Berchtesgaden by Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, when the fuehrer first outlined his plans for a Danzig stroke.

According to Italian sources, Hitler planned to occupy the free city last Friday. As soon as Mussolini heard this, he communicated with Hitler several times, successfully urging the German leader to hold back his army and attempt negotiations.

PEACE CHANCES IMPROVE, BELIEF IN WASHINGTON

But Observers, Government Officials Say Decision's Still Up to Hitler.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Many administration officials were more optimistic about the European crisis today.

Both official and diplomatic authorities regarded the chances for peace "greatly improved."

They emphasized, however, the belief that peace or war still rested with Adolf Hitler.

Peace Door Still Open.

It was generally believed here that Hitler's statement to the British had left the door open for negotiation between the directly interested governments, thus forestalling, at least temporarily, the likelihood of war.

The administration continued with plans to prepare the country for any eventuality. These moves included:

1—Search of each foreign vessel entering an American port to prevent it being fitted out as a sea raider. President Roosevelt said that he had ordered such precautionary measures taken on both coasts.

2—War department plans to take immediate steps to strengthen the anti-aircraft garrison of the Panama Canal.

3—Extraordinary precautions by federal agents to prevent sabotage on the more than 100 warships under construction, or in munitions and airplane factories.

4—Continued studies by legal experts in all fields of government administration in an effort to preserve United States neutrality in the event of war.

It was stated in usually reliable quarters that President Roosevelt is considering, as a last step, another peace appeal to Hitler in event the Fuehrer rejects British peace pleas.

The president placed partial responsibility for the alarming European situation on senate Republicans and a minority of senate Democrats.

He passed that judgment yesterday in his regular press conference in response to a question whether he thought congress' refusal to revise neutrality legislation was a factor in the existing situation.

Mr. Roosevelt said there were various opinions whether failure to deal with neutrality last session was a major or minor factor but that there was general agreement that it was a factor. He made the statement that it was a factor, but refused to express an opinion on how great may have been the influence of congressional inaction on European developments.

RECEIPTS CLIMB

Collection Totals $415,000 as Tax Period Nears Close.

The prospects for a high per cent of real estate tax collections for the last half of the year were brighter today as receipts mounted to $415,510 with three more days to go.

Payments which have lagged during most of the collection period, jumped to $22,000 Tuesday, making a total of $38,500 collected this week.

Although receipts were still $159,000 short of the $575,000 charge, payments during the next few days and checks received after the tax books close are expected to boost the collections past $500,000.

County Treasurer John E. Kolb warned again that no statements for taxes will be mailed during this collection. Statements were mailed only for the first half of the year and the same amount listed on them is payable again in this collection, he said.

KILLS SELF AS INFANT DIES

Mother Shot Self After Finding Baby Dead, Coroner Believes.

WAUSEON—(INS)—A verdict of suicide was returned today by Coroner N. M. Warner in the death of 29-year-old Mrs. Pearl Schmucker, who was found shot to death at home near the lifeless body of her three-months-old son.

Warner said the mother apparently had shot herself when she went to the child's crib and found he was dead. An autopsy was to be performed on the infant to determine the cause of death.

JAPS RUSH NEW DEFENSE PLANS

Hurry Troops to Manchoukuo as Result of Germany's Pact With Russia.

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO—As a result of Soviet Russia's nonaggression pact with Germany, freeing the hands of Japan's rival in eastern Asia, the Japanese army is rushing large forces into Manchoukuo through Korea and North China.

All vulnerable points along Manchoukuo's frontiers with Soviet Siberia and outer Mongolia, Soviet protectorate, are being reinforced.

Manchoukuo is filled with rumors that Russia, now freed of the German menace on her western frontier, similarly is massing fresh armies in Siberia.

(In Moscow, however, the official agency, Tass, issued a denial of reports that 200,000 to 300,000 red army troops had been sent to the far east, asserting that on the contrary Russia was reinforcing her western frontier garrisons.)

Scores of persons in all walks of life frankly voiced fears that the long-awaited second Russo-Japanese war was imminent.

TWO DIE IN TRAFFIC

CINCINNATI—(INS)—Two more traffic fatalities were recorded in the Cincinnati area today with the deaths of Mrs. Ferol Clark, 35, and John Boeglin, 36. Both were fatally injured in automobile collisions.

conditions at the farm, populated entirely by prisoners transferred from the overcrowded Ohio penitentiary. Men transferred are supposed to be "higher type" prisoners although two of the 14 who escaped were under life sentences for murder.

There had been reports that Jenkins would either be replaced or asked to resign by Sept. 1, but Sherwood has declined comment on such reports. He has also failed to take action on Jenkins' request for a leave of absence, though it was made a week ago.

Allen and Huber, the latest convicts to flee the farm, escaped while they were working in a field of tall corn, the stalks hiding them from guards.

Allen was admitted to the Ohio penitentiary Oct. 6, 1936 from Muskingum county to serve a sentence from one to seven years for larceny. He was transferred to the prison farm March 11, 1937. Huber entered the penitentiary June 28, 1934 from Fairfield county to serve two to 15 years for an attempt to poison his wife. He was sent to London March 23, 1938.

Shortly before Allen and Huber escaped, Raymond McMahon, 27, who fled Aug. 21 with three companions, was captured in Logansport, Ind.

JUNIOR FIREMEN TO BE SELECTED

SHELBY—Appointment of a junior fireman for the Shelby fire department is expected to be made by Mayor D. B. Young at the regular meeting of city council next week.

The appointment will be made from the eligibility list released this month by the civil service commission. On the list are Kenneth Hageman, a volunteer fireman in the department for a number of years who received the highest grade; Harvey Evans, second high; and Bert Elliot, third.

years ago to make room for the city's new $331,000 unit.

This site, the mayor said has already been tiled for drainage and the city can save several hundred dollars by utilizing that area for the proposed drying beds.

It had originally been planned to do the work on contract, but the need for immediate construction altered the plans and it is now expected that the job will be done under the supervision of Superintendent of Streets D. D. Orewiler, using relief labor.

Funds for the project will be sought from a special PWA fund, set up for the construction of the plant, and in which there is still a balance of approximately $4,700, Hunter said.

Police said Cook has admitted the bludgeon death of the pretty Russian dancer and drama student.

$16,441 PAID TO JOBLESS IN THIS DISTRICT

July Benefits Average $9.60 Weekly in Richland and Morrow Counties.

Compensation benefits totaling $16,441 were distributed to Richland and Morrow county jobless workers during July by the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, it was reported today.

The 1,806 checks mailed out by the bureau showed an increase of approximately one per cent over the unemployment insurance paid to jobless workers in the two-county district in June, the report said.

The average weekly benefits paid to unemployed workers in the district for total unemployment was $9.60 as compared with a state-wide average of $10.52.

Average weekly benefits for partial unemployment of $5.90 showed were slightly above the state average of $5.30 during the month.

Initial claims received during July at the Mansfield district office numbered 161, a decrease of 46 per cent from the preceding month.

$91,000 Paid In 7 Months.

Since last January when the unemployment insurance program was inaugurated $91,682 has been paid to totally and partially unemployed workers in Richland and Morrow counties under the Ohio Unemployment Compensation law.

In Ashland county jobless workers received checks totaling $1,596 during July. Average weekly benefits for total unemployment were listed at $10.63 and for partial unemployment at $6.79.

Crawford county unemployed received $9,692, the total unemployment benefits averaging $8.65 and partial unemployment benefits $5.40.

Knox county benefits totaled $5,171 during the month.

A supplemental report issued by the Ohio State Employment Service division showed that jobs were found for 116 workers in the Mansfield district last month.

Private placements were nearly double the number made in July, 1938, although they were slightly less than the number for whom jobs were found in June, when 130 were placed in employment.

Prize-Winning Gardens In School Contest

—News-Journal Photos.

Here are pictures of two first-prize-winning gardens in the annual school garden contests, sponsored each year by the garden clubs of Mansfield. Prizes are awarded from a fund provided by the will of the late Gen. Roeliff Brinkerhoff. The city is divided into six districts with prizes for each district. Donald Leedy, 594 South Diamond street, was prize winner in the district made up of Bowman and Hedges schools. Donald is shown at the top in his own garden. The picket fence he made from cheese boxes, the bird bath he made with cement and pebbles, while the image of a bird he cut out of wood.

STUDIES PATROL STATION COSTS

Beightler Orders State-Wide Check, Charges Some of Prices 'Outlandish.'

Possibility that the Mansfield sub-station of the state highway patrol may be re-located was seen today as Highway Director Robert S. Beightler ordered auditors to make a check of the patrol's 27 stations throughout the state.

Dispatches from Columbus quoted Beightler as saying the state was paying "outlandish prices in some cases" in rent for the sub-stations and that rentals must either be reduced or new locations will be found.

Meanwhile City Policeman O. D. Fair, from whom the state leases its present quarters at 309 Park avenue west, said he "wouldn't be interested" in continuing the lease at any less than the present rental.

The state is now paying $67 a month for an office, sleeping quarters and garage, Fair said, the same as is paid for other sub-stations throughout the state.

He said the present lease, which has been in force for three years, could be cancelled on one month's notice.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 30, 1939.

Now is the time to start getting rid of that coat of tan which was so earnestly acquired this summer.

Rather unusual to find someone who doesn't know just how the European situation could be cleared up in a hurry.

It should be noted that the Englishman who drove his car 369 miles an hour didn't try it between Mansfield and Ashland.

Hoping for Peace, Preparing for War

DURING the last session of congress there was considerable talk about a constitutional amendment providing for a nation-wide referendum vote before the United States could enter a war.

There has also been much discussion as to ways in which the United States could maintain a position of absolute neutrality in the event of a European war.

Both of these subjects furnish lively material for conversation while peace prevails but result only in futile arguments under conditions of actual warfare—as was demonstrated during the period from 1914 to late in 1916 when Woodrow Wilson was re-elected president by the slogan, "He kept us out of war."

While it may have appeared, in the early stages of the World war, that the United States could keep out of it, it had become evident long before actual entry of this country, that public sentiment was strongly in favor of the Allies and that American support must be given, in the event it became urgently needed to assure defeat of the Central powers.

The United States, and a very large percentage of its people, are anxious for a continuance of peace. We do not want to go to war against Germany, or against any other country. We believe that civilization is nearing a point at which human beings will be capable of finding a peaceful solution of their conscientious differences.

But we are also quite confident, on the showing now being made in Europe and in other parts of the world, that permanent world peace is still an ideal, not a reality, and that self preservation demands readiness for war—if war is forced upon us.

The United States is therefore making ready for war—on a scale involving the largest military expenditures in our peace-time history, with plans already in readiness for a Mobilization day, which, on the outbreak of hostilities, would have an immediate and drastic effect on every individual and business in the country.

Remembering the confusion and delay that followed entry into the World war, there is determination that this shall not be repeated, and plans provide for organization of a large army in a very short time, for either territorial or foreign use. Every man within specified age limits must be ready to enter government service, either in military or other capacity, on call, with first conscription of unmarried young men in good health.

Industry would also be immediately mobilized, with the government exercising dictatorial authority over production, prices, labor, trade, and the procurement of supplies.

If, as is being quite generally contended, Adolf Hitler, German chancellor, holds the power of decision as to peace or war, something of the tremendous implications of that power can be gained from consideration of the effect his decision may eventually have on every man, woman and child living in the United States.

Up to a late hour this afternoon the Labor day holiday still stands as the first Monday in September—as indicated in red on the calendar.

Congress and Economy

SOMETHING of a paradox is found in the fact that while the last congress appropriated even more money than its big-spending predecessor it has been given considerable praise for its trend in the direction of economy.

The paradox is understandable. For, toward the closing weeks of the session, congress, obviously appalled by the swiftness with which the national debt is approaching the $45,000,000,000 legal limit, finally put its foot down. It sharply reduced WPA expenditures, pared appropriations proposed in the "self-liquidating" spending bill, all along the line, and otherwise showed its belief that the time for retrenchment was at hand.

The common forecast now is that the next session of congress will go a great deal farther in the direction of a balanced budget.

The last congress made a start. It is the duty of the next congress to go on from there, and really achieve something beside more and bigger deficits. Such a spending spree this country has been indulging in has never before been witnessed in world history.

An automobile guaranteed to "do 90" doesn't encourage an inquisitive youngster to drive safely.

Mansfield and New York First

MANSFIELD again breaks into the national limelight, in a creditable way, with the announcement that this city is to have a look at the screen version of Louis Bromfield's story, "The Rains Came," on September 16, the same day on which the picture is to have its premiere showing in New York City.

Enough is already known about this story, and the lavish manner in which it has been filmed, to arouse public curiosity to a high pitch, and the occasion of its first showing will probably attract considerable patronage from neighboring cities and even from more distant places.

It is anticipated that some form of civic recognition will be accorded this occasion, so that Mansfield and Richland county may benefit from the favorable publicity that will naturally result.

Taxes in this country have advanced 640 per cent since 1913—but long before that taxes were regarded as "too high."

Streamlining Field Expands

"STREAMLINING" seems to be entering a new phase. Starting with motor cars and extending rapidly to kitchen ware, refrigerators, cutlery and many kinds of small goods, it is finally being applied to store fronts.

In some cases the use of this descriptive term may be questioned; the fronts may not really be given flowing curves and patterns usually associated with true streamlining. But the general style, at least, usually suggests modernity and motion.

Listen, World!

The Privilege of a Broken Heart.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE ASKS: "Is there any cure for a broken heart?" And, tracing the wavering ink, you know the pain that prompted that young questioning.

Poor child! It seems so new to her—that old, old story of a love that flamed in carefree days but faded when trouble came. So now he's gone with a gayer girl—and she's left to wonder and wail:

"I'm only twenty-one, with all those long years ahead. How can I live them? . . . What can I do? . . . Tell me, Elsie — please!"

What can you do for a broken heart?

THANK GOD THAT IT IS! FOR NO HEART WAS EVER WORTH THE BREATH IT TAKES TO KEEP IT GOING, UNTIL IT HAS BEEN BROKEN, MY DEAR.

"Thank God"? That isn't the answer you expected, is it? You wanted me to pity you and curse that Heartless Villyun. But I shall do nothing of the sort. . . . For I've known plenty of heartbreak myself, little girl, and I'm telling you that it's not only a blessed privilege and a golden opportunity, but a vitally necessary process if we wish to be full grown.

For our affections were meant to mature as well as our muscles and bones. . . . But how can a heart grow up unless it's been opened wide? . . . And how can love ever come of age if we keep it chained close inside?

Have your "happy endings" if you must—but there's something hideous and abnormal about a heart that has never known grief. It's as tight and toxic as a diseased gland. Not a pretty simile, but a mighty apt one. Ask your doctor. He'll show you the danger that lurks in focalized infection. And your psychiatrist will back him up . . . tell you that sealed minds and hearts become spiritual cysts, filled with the poison of infantile dreams and dreads.

THE HEART THAT HAS NEVER BEEN BROKEN HAS NEVER BEEN REALLY BORN.

It has never contacted reality. It has never been cleansed and quickened by the fierce, fundamental human experiences. It has neither tolerance, understanding, flexibility nor generosity. It is unfinished, unfulfilled.

Edna St. Vincent Millay once wrote this immortal line—

"I NEVER KNEW HOW I COULD LAUGH TILL MY HEART BROKE."

And that goes for every son and daughter of Eve, however famous or obscure. We not only do not know how we, ourselves, can laugh, or weep, or hope, or do battle, till our hearts break. But we do not know how the Other Fellow can, either.

Life as well as love is a closed book to us, until we are laid open by the sharp lancet of pain.

Do not reject or resent your heartbreak. Do not deny it or try to forget it . . . or feel ashamed of it. Thank God it has come to you . . . and delivered you from the hard, small cell of your own ignorance . . . and opened up to you the wonder and beauty of a new world . . . a new self.

Health And Diet

Shame of Nation: Smallpox Increasing.

—By DR. CLENDENING

WE HAVE discussed two diseases that are disappearing—typhoid fever and diphtheria. They are disappearing because we know a method of prevention. It consists, in both cases, in the acceptance, on the part of all parents, of the responsibility of producing active immunity by inoculation. That is, it consists in every individual's making a special and personal effort.

It is remarkable that in a comparatively short time the public could be educated and persuaded to adopt this responsibility; remarkable that it has been carried out almost universally.

Today we are going to consider a disease that, instead of being on the decrease, is on the increase—smallpox. And the shame and tragedy of it is that it is just the same kind of a disease as the others. It is a disease that can absolutely be prevented and one that can be prevented exactly as diphtheria and typhoid are prevented—by individual inoculation for immunity.

Oldest of Methods.

Vaccination against smallpox is the oldest of the methods used to obtain individual immunity. In the early days of its use it was accepted eagerly, because the menace of smallpox was an ever-present and terrifying reality. Perhaps it was too successful. A long century and a half of freedom from smallpox has lulled the world into the belief that vaccination is unnecessary. Nobody sees smallpox, except occasionally. The epidemics you do hear about are mild. Why bother?

But contagious diseases only sleep; they do not die out. Eternal vigilance in immunization is necessary. We have plenty of evidence that smallpox may break out if the world is left unvaccinated.

In the United States, in 1936, there were 7,813 cases — ten times as many cases as of diphtheria, and nearly ten times as many as of typhoid. And it is a preventable disease. The record is little short of disgraceful.

It is true of late years that the disease is mild: the death rate is only half of one per cent. But all diseases go in cycles of virulence.

Epidemic Proportions.

"There is every probability," says an authority, "that the disease will assume epidemic proportions just as soon as a false sense of security results in a considerable unvaccinated population."

What the world would be like if a virulent epidemic began was described by Macauley.

"That disease over which science has achieved a succession of glorious and beneficent victories was then the most terrible of all ministers of death. The smallpox was always present, filling the churchyards with corpses, tormenting with constant fear all whom it had not yet stricken, leaving on those whose lives it spared the hideous traces of its power . . . "

Vaccination is best done at an earl age, from eight to 14 months. Babies at that age have little or no discomfort from vaccination, and it is important that they be protected early. After the first vaccination repetitions are advisable at intervals of four to seven years, until there is a record of three successful vaccinations.

Timely Editorial

They're Rackets.

It was time it occurred to someone in the Dies committee that most of the subversive groups it has been looking into are "just financial rackets for the leaders"—a description applied to them the other day by one of the committee, Rep. Thomas of New Jersey.

It is a direction that might be more profitably explored than some that the inquest into such organizations as the Bund has taken. If a little fuehrer is able to hynotize only 25,000 dues payers out of a possible 130 million, he is after all no great threat to the stability of the country, but at a dollar a head or whatever his yearly take may be, he is doing very well for himself. An organizer of intolerance has morons to deal with in the first instance, and usually has something on the side to sell them—a 59-cent nightshirt for $5 or the equivalent.

This is the vulnerable side of a man like Kuhn, but one overlooked in the noise and irrelevancies of the Dies hearing.—Detroit News.

Grab Bag

One-Minute Test.

1. What does the phrase "of that ilk" mean?
2. What is a "free lance?"
3. Can a foreign-born citizen be eligible to become president of the United States?

Words of Wisdom.

Neither human applause nor human censure is to be taken as the test of truth but either should set up upon testing ourselves—Whately.

Hints On Etiquet.

It may not prevent divorce, but it would help immensely in promoting and encouraging pleasant home conditions if husband and wife answered the mate pleasantly instead of snapping when questioned if they happen to be deep in interesting book or paper.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. Correctly used it is not "of that kind, race or family," but identical or the same.
2. A free lance is a person not permanently affiliated with an organization.
3. Yes if he is the child of American parents.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—This may seem a little uncalled for, but I am getting tired of books whose heroines wear leather jackets and who march in parades and advocate violence on street corners under the logic that anyone has the right to live his own life without regard for other people.

More and more books of this character are left by publishers on my desk—for review purposes I suppose, and for friendly comment. . . . Three such novels, all with ink undry, came this week, and if I weren't so lazy I'd wrap them up and send them all back, with a request that my name be dropped from such lists in the future.

It may be that my increasing annoyance can be traced to pure senility, but then all my life I have hated authors who go out of their way to defeminize their heroines, and if there is anything feminine in a shrew shrieking politics under the gas lights in vacant lots, then I read the wrong fairy tales when I was a boy.

I HAVE always hated James Fenimore Cooper because he invariably referred to his heroines as "healthy young females." Instead of saying that the ladies waited for the gentlemen on the veranda, he would say, "The females waited for the males on the porch." Without this I could forgive Cooper his thousand other sins, even his invariable crime of dullness, but to be slapped in the face with a stockyard phrase every time you expected a dimple—that cured me at a very early age.

I cannot say that I care particularly for the fictional women of John Steinbeck, although when you skim off the slop you find that "Grapes of Wrath" is an extraordinary book.

It is extraordinary in the sense that it has slapped the country in the face with a very ugly allegation, and when people become sufficiently uncomfortable about an intolerable situation, they usually try to do something about it. But I think Steinbeck weakens his own hand by painting all his people with the same brush. I mean I think his agument would carry more drive if he would write at least one book on a varying theme, because a lot of people then would accept him as a versatile artist rather than as an able but perhaps slightly fanatical crusader. After all it is easier to be impressed by the views of a man who knows both sides of a question than by a man who sees only one.

BUT now I see that I have mentioned James Fenimore Cooper in the same breath with John Steinbeck, and I ought to apologize. To Mr. Steinbeck, I mean. Mr. Steinbeck's women are pretty horrible at times, but at least they are womanly and not just "females" who have nothing to recommend them except that they are healthy and young.

The Museum of Modern Art is really modern. It has a big sign painted on its roof so aviators can spot it—or could it be to lessen the chances of bombing? War talk makes you think strange things these days.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Wake Happy.

Do you wake happy? Some there are
Who as the morning breaks
For them, uncover eyes with gloom,
Cross words and all that makes

The day begin with grief. But why?
Why not wake happy, smile
Upon the world and think and feel
This day will be worth while?

Wake happy, let your heart bound up
With cheerful mood to greet
New day, be eager for all that
It is your fate to meet.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The story of Britain's failure to bring Russia into a defensive alliance is one of petty haggling, diplomatic double-crossing and of playing for a few pounds sterling when the fate of the Empire was at stake.

The same story has featured British diplomacy throughout the past decade—and longer. To a lesser extent recently it has tinctured the maneuvering of our own state department.

Real fact was that a majority in the British cabinet never did want an alliance with Russia, looked upon the Soviet as an international leper, likely to infest the British body politic with loathsome disease.

The fear of Hitler forced this majority into a minority, but the minority remained powerful, and even those within the cabinet who agreed that Russia was necessary to Britain, sat down with Soviet diplomats as if they had halitosis.

For instance, instead of sending Sir Robert Vansittart, top man in the British foreign office, to Moscow to do the negotiating, thus tickling the vanity of the Soviets, Chamberlain sent a No. 2 diplomat to perform this, the most important and most delicate diplomatic job facing Britain.

Meanwhile Chamberlain was telling his parliament and the press that a Russian alliance was a matter of days, perhaps hours, when he must have known what well-informed observers knew in Washington, that his negotiators were stymied.

During the same week that this column, endeavoring to report the real news, was predicting that there would be no Anglo-Russian pact, Chamberlain was assuring parliament that there would.

Real fact was that during the Moscow negotiations, a group in the British government still continued to try to do business with Hitler, even proposing a five billion dollar loan to him. Stalin knew this, so Chamberlain must have known it.

This was the group from the "City" (London's Wall Street) which firmly believes it would be better for Hitler to rule Europe. Hitler, the City group argued, cannot rule without cash, so they proposed to be his bankers.

Spanish Double-Cross.

IN ENGLAND, of course, politics and pounds sterling go hand in hand. It was in this juxtaposition that they were traveling as the Chamberlain government started its course in Spain. Next to its failure to tie up Russia, this was the second biggest mistake of British diplomacy.

It is now an open secret that when General Franco flew from the Canary Islands to start Spain's bloody civil war, a British pilot, a British plane and British money carried him.

British business, worried over its iron and tin mines in Spain, and over the radical policies of the Spanish republican government, had determined to crush that government. It did. And in doing so it weakened the entire British Empire. For today General Franco, whom British business financed, points his German-made artillery from the hills of Algeciras down on Gibraltar and demands Spain for the Spaniards; while France now must weaken her army by stationing part of it along the Spanish border.

Regarding Spain, Mr. Chamberlain was quite frank in admitting that politics and cash went hand-in-hand. "A Spanish Republican victory," he once told Harold Laski, "would strengthen the Popular Front government in France, which in turn would give a tremendous impetus to the Labor party in Great Britain."

We Ape the British.

APPARENTLY there were those in Washington who believed as Mr. Chamberlain. The Roosevelt administration is supposed to be pro-labor, pro-democracy and vigorously anti-dictator. But in the state department certain coupon-clipping career boys became the self-appointed champions of France and for a time barred doctors, nurses, and volunteers to Loyalist Spain—even when they were encouraging American volunteers to enlist in the Chinese air corps.

The state department even aped the British to the extent of persuading Roosevelt to issue a statement praising the Mussolini-Chamberlain agreement, which had not the slightest chance of succeeding. And they missed a golden opportunity to revise the neutrality act by squelching a senate move to raise the embargo against Spain, largely because lifting the embargo would have upset Chamberlain and his policy of supporting Franco.

Chinese Double-Cross.

STATE DEPARTMENT policy under Roosevelt definitely and inexplicably has followed in the wake of the British. Under Mr. Hoover it did not. In fact, it was Hoover's Secretary of State, Henry L. Stimson, who got the worst British double-crossing given an American statesman in many a decade — double-crossing which contributed materially to the death of peace and the world's present dilemma.

Stimson was an ardent, altruistic believer in strengthening the peace machinery of the Kellogg Pact. He moved with force and repidity to pour water on every international conflagration.

When Bolivia and Paraguay were almost at each other's throats he pulled them apart. He did likewise when Soviet Russia clawed the Chinese in Manchuria. Greatest test of his peace machinery came in 1931 when Japan invaded Manchuria, obviously bent upon its conquest.

Stimson knew, and every other realistic diplomat knew that this was but the beginning, that once Japan bit off Manchuria, she would move south, farther and farther, until she had taken all of China. Stimson also knew that this was the first real test of the peace machinery the world had nurtured so carefully since 1918.

In order to save that machinery he went further than any other American statesman in co-operating with the Leaegue of Nations and in urging peace upon Japan. From Sir John Simon, then foreign minister of Great Britain, he asked joint action. But when identic peace notes were sent to Japan, Stimson finally woke up to the fact that the British ambassador, after delivering his note, would go back to the Japanese Foreign Office and say in effect:

"I just wanted you to know that we promised the United States we would send this note, so we had to go through with it. But of course, we appreciate your problem in Manchuria."

British Bow to Japan.

FINALLY, with the capture of Chinchow, Stimson cabled the American Ambassador, Cameron Forbes, to lodge a protest with the Japanese foreign office, in company with the British ambassador. This time Stimson wanted his own ambassador present as a witness to what the British said. So Forber called Sir Francis Lindley on the phone and asked when he would make the call.

"I haven't received my instructions as yet," replied Sir Francis, "but don't wait on me, my dear fellow, don't wait on me."

Sir Francis never did receive his instructions and Ambassador Forbes never did call on the foreign office. Mr. Stimson was beginning to understand British diplomacy.

That was in 1932. A scant seven years have passed. Today, the British are on their knees to Japan in Tientsin, are threatened by Japanese troops in Shanghai, are evacuating their women and children from Hongkong. And British statesmen who once double-crossed Mr. Stimson are now angling to get the support of the U. S. fleet.

Wild Grapes

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ALL summer long I have watched with pleasure the mantle-like formation of wild grape leaves where the vines rambled over the tops of small trees and then climbed gracefully to the highest point of some forest giant.

A heavy shower of rain came up as I was walking near the border of such a woods. For shelter I hurried beneath this tightly matted bower of leaves. As the rain poured down, I was secure and dry. Hardly a splintered drop came through, yet the rain beat upon the top and sides as upon a roof. Above me, like long slender ropes, the grape vines hung, undulating back and forth beneath the green translucent tent. The branches of the noble pignut stood out as is in support of the thick green walls. The last year's leaves upon the floor were moistened slightly by the sprays of mist that eddied in from without.

Even after the shower had passed, I was reluctant to leave. I heard the steady drip, drip of the water draining off from the higher areas, but I felt secure and comfortable within this house of Nature.

Then suddenly the sun came out, and shone full upon the eastern side. The round green dome above was lighted softly by a thousand flickering rays and the dripping mist about the base made eerie shifting rainbow colors as I watched. I heard the heavy drops shaken from the neighboring trees by a breath of breeze, but I was immune within these massive, mantled walls.

Small compact bunches of wild grapes, with just a hint of purple hung on slender stems below, within the outer edge of green, above my head. Nearer the ground the clustering vines had borne no fruit. I thought how wise old Nature is to bid us climb before we may partake of her precious fruit.

This wild grape, in late spring, holds still a greater lure. The fragrance of the newborn bloom is like a breath of Eden, strange, wild and delectable, yet intense and captivating. It will drift out upon the silent air for half a mile and delight the dullest senses, yet it is so elusive that one cannot determine, always, just where it comes from. This sweet perfume lends tone and character to any countryside.

TRIMS INDIGENT HOSPITAL BILLS

City Spends $6,207 in First Half of Year, $900 Under 1938 Expenditures.

Hospitalization of indigent patients which cost the city $6,207 during the first six months of this year showed a 12 per cent decrease from last year, Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said today.

Since late in January when Mayor Claude M. Hunter ordered the monthly bill for hospitalization, burial and medical attention to relief clients to be "cut to the bone," decreases have been shown monthly with the exception of April.

The reduction was ordered when it was disclosed that during 1938 expenditures for these purposes had exceeded appropriations by more than 35 per cent.

The hospital bill for the first six months of this year totaled $6,207 as compared with $7,080 spent during the same period in 1938, a decrease of $873, Dr. Rehder said.

With the exception of January when hospital bill totaled $988 and April when $1,432 was spent, a sharp decrease was shown in the monthly bills, which Dr. Rehder explained were large last year because of general economic conditions.

Early this year council set up $17,000 to finance cost of hospitalization for 1939 as well as meet bills left over from last year.

THEATERS

GREER GARSON, who was treated like a step-child of Hollywood for so long, has come into her own since "Goodbye Mr. Chips," and now she is being pampered and treated like movie royalty, and her next picture will be a co-starring one with Robert Taylor in "Remember" . . . John Wayne, the "tall 'n' handsome" Western star, who clicked so largely in "Stagecoach," will be seen next in "Allegheny Frontier," a story of Pennsylvania in the 1760's. . . . John Garfield, who grew up in the lower East Side of Manhattan, is, ironically enough, starring in "20,000 Years In Sing Sing." Ironically, because he just barely escaped being one of the men he is portraying in the film. A lot of Garfield's boyhood friends are in Sing Sing and a few have died in the electric chair there. Through the aid and friendship of Angelo Patri, Garfield, once a "problem boy," is now a movie star instead of a "guest" of Warden Lawes.

Change of Schedule.

With the changing of Bank Night to Friday nights instead of Thursdays, the Madison will go into a new schedule of picture changes this week. There will be a double feature bill on Wednesdays and Thursdays (starting today), a new single feature bill on Fridays, and a single feature bill for Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Today's program has "They All Come Out," a story of Alcatraz prison, with Tom Neal and Rita Johnson; and "Island of Lost Men," in which Anna May Wong plays the daughter of an Oriental general trapped in a jungle ruled by a madman. Broderick Crawford, of "Mice and Men" fame, is in the cast.

Personality Battle.

It's a battle of wits and personality between a taxi dancer and a bunch of college girls in "These Glamour Girls," the Ohio attraction. The dancer is Lana Turner, who has plenty of glamor of her own, while the university girls include Ann Rutherford (Andy Hardy's movie sweetheart), Anita Louise, Jane Bryan, Marsha Hunt and Mary Beth Hughes. Lew Ayers heads the boys' contingent, with Tom Brown, Richard Carlson, Owen Davis, jr., Sumner Getchell and Don Castle. The action romps from Roselane dance hall to upper Fifth Avenue and back again.

Plane Sabotage.

Only two persons know of the new invention of an electric bombing plane and when the plane explodes in its test flight, the United States Air Corps officer (Jack Holt), and the inventor, (Holmes Herbert,) agree that it was sabotage. How they set about trapping the traitor makes up the story of "Trapped In the Sky," one of the two features at the Park tomorrow. C. Henry Gordon and Katherine DeMille have major roles. "Escape By Night," is the second feature.

Romantic, But Deadly.

John Wayne made the Ringo Kid in "Stagecoach" as romantic and deadly as the Cisco Kid in an earlier picture. The climax, in which Wayne walks down a deserted street in a desert town to meet three armed men who have vowed to kill him on sight, is filled with enough suspense to make up two pictures. This was Wayne's first break to play in a class A picture, as he has starred in program Westerns for several years.

DON'T SCRATCH, SOOTHE THE IRRITATION

Quick relief from the maddening itch of eczema, psoriasis, poison ivy, and irritation about the rectum or personal parts is obtained by applying Resinol Ointment. Leave it on over night. It lessens the desire to scratch, and eases the irritation.

The soothing effect of Resinol takes the sting from the irritated places and makes you more comfortable. The skin heals sooner, too, with the help of Resinol, as its oily base holds the medication in active contact with the tortured parts.

For gentle cleansing of irritated skin, Resinol Soap is excellent because it has no excess of free alkali and is so refreshing. Many nurses suggest and use Resinol Ointment and Soap—why don't you try them?

Buy at any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 85, Baltimore, Md.

Boston Policeman With 3 Degrees In Quest of Fourth

BOSTON — (U.P.) — Although he already holds three degrees, a Boston policeman is in search of a fourth.

Patrolman Edwin D. Flanders, jr., has an A. B. from Portia college, an LL. B. from Boston university and a B. L. I. from Emerson college. He now brushes up on his knowledge of literature preparatory for an M. A. he expects to get from Portia college.

Between now and the time he returns for duty on the police force, Flanders expects to make a good study of general literature in the schools and libraries of Europe.

Though he was not prepared to say to what general use his studies would be applied, Flanders stated:

"I just study for the fun of it. When the time comes that I find I have studied enough, I will decide what, if anything, to do about it."

DIVORCES RISE

OTTAWA—(U.P.)—The steady increase of divorce in Canada is attracting the attention of sociologists and statisticians here. The figures steadily mount. In 1918, there were only 114 divorces in all the country. In 1928, the figure had risen to 783 and in 1938, to 1,883.

INDUSTRIES TO SPEND $300,000 FOR EXPANSION

2 Projects Near Completion, 2 Others to Be Started Within Month.

More than $300,000 worth of building construction is beyond the blueprint stage in Mansfield in a series of expansion moves by local industries.

Topping the construction work will be the erection by Westinghouse of a $135,000 industrial bridge which, when finished, will be the largest structure of its kind in the world.

Contracts for the overhead structure which will connect the main plant with the vitreous enameling plant are expected to be awarded within the next two weeks, officials said, and work will be started at once.

Plans call for the construction of an all-steel, covered bridge from the southwest corner of Wayne and East Fifth street, east to Purdy street and then north to the vitreous works.

Tappan Spends $100,000.

Within the next month the Tappan Stove company hopes to break ground for a new enameling plant which when completed with new furnaces will involve an expenditure of $100,000.

Part of the present structure will be remodeled. The addition will permit the company to do its own enameling. Products are now shipped out of the city for this work.

At the Humphryes Manufacturing company work is under way on a $50,000 warehouse as part of that firm's expansion program.

The building, a three-story brick and steel structure, is being erected on Newman street just north of East Fifth street and is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy by Dec. 1.

Another plant addition at the Art Rattan Works on Park avenue east involving the expenditure of $30,000 is nearing completion. Plant officials today said the construction work was finished and that landscaping will be started this week.

GET BEE RIGHTS

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (U.P.) — California bears, which are just as fond of honey as the bears of any other state, have just won an important legal ruling here. While it is open season the year around for killing bears caught attacking livestock, Attorney General Earl Warren has ruled that this does not cover bees, and the bears are at liberty the year around to attack bee hives.

WILL THEY CALL THESE JALOPPIES?

How fast will man fly five years from now? Be careful, it may be twice your guess. For things are happening quickly to engines and gasolines today. It's hard to put a limit on any achievement. Not only in the air, but on the ground as well. Who, five years ago, thought we'd ever have a great, silent, powerful gasoline like SOHIO SUPREME? Yet it's here—now, ready for you to enjoy today!

SOHIO SUPREME

SOHIO SUPREME ... the great successor to SOHIO Ethyl

Because SOHIO SUPREME so greatly exceeds the minimum specifications for an "Ethyl" gasoline, we have discontinued the sale of SOHIO Ethyl.

We have kept the advantages of Ethyl fluid, and developed in SOHIO SUPREME a motor fuel that is higher in anti-knock, with a better balance of acceleration and power, than any gasoline we have ever before produced for automobile engines. Regardless of the car you drive, we believe the superior qualities of this modern gasoline will be evident with your very first tankful—which you can get today at no increase over the usual price for premium fuels.
